

Urges Inquiry on 'Concentration of Economic Power'

Roosevelt Wants $500,000 for 'Comprehensive Study'

ASKS LEGISLATION

Seeks 'Effective Control' of Bank Holding Companies

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt recommended to congress today a $500,000 appropriation for a "comprehensive study" of the "concentration of economic power in American industry and the effect of that concentration upon the decline of competition."

In his long promised message on anti-trust law revision, the president also proposed for immediate enactment the following legislation:

To "effectively control the operation of bank holding companies."

To "prevent holding companies from acquiring control of any more banks, directly or indirectly."

To "prevent banks controlled by holding companies from establishing any more branches."

To "make it illegal for a holding company, or any corporation or enterprise in which it is financially interested to borrow from, or sell securities to a bank in which it holds stock."

Would Allow Time

"I recommend," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that this bank legislation make provision for the gradual separation of banks from holding company control or ownership, allowing a reasonable time for this accomplishment—time enough for it to be done in an orderly manner and without causing inconvenience to communities served by holding company banks."

He declared the program was not the beginning of "any ill considered 'trust-busting' activity which lacks proper consideration for economic results," but was a program to "preserve private enterprise for profit by keeping it free enough to be able to utilize all our resources of capital and labor at a profit."

"Concentration of private power existing today was 'without equal in history' and was 'growing' the president said.

He announced he would ask a deficiency appropriation of $200,000 for the department of justice to provide for the "proper and fair enforcement of the existing anti-trust laws" and added the study he proposed, to be conducted by the federal trade commission, justice department and the securities commission, should not be confined to the anti-trust field but should cover the "effects of tax, patent and other government policies."

Wants Price Study

"There should be an examination of the existing laws and the price policies of industry to determine their effect upon the general level of trade, upon unemployment, upon long term profits and upon consumption," Mr. Roosevelt asserted.

Enumerating some of the items for study, he said the anti-trust laws should be made susceptible of practical enforcement by ceasing upon those charged with violations the burden of proving facts peculiarly within their knowledge."

"The justice department and trade commission," he added, "should be given more adequate and effective power to investigate whenever there is reason to believe that conditions exist or practices prevail which violate the provisions or defeat the objectives of the anti-trust laws."

"If investigation reveals borderline cases where legitimate cooperative efforts to eliminate socially and economically harmful methods of competition in particular industries are thwarted by fear of possible technical violations of the anti-trust laws, remedial legislation should be considered."

Suggests Penalties

As a deterrent to personal wrongdoing, he suggested where a corporation is enjoined from violating the law the court be empowered to enjoin it for a specified period from giving any remunerative employment to any person found to bear a responsibility for the wrongful corporate action. The government, he added, might also be authorized to

17th Annual Post-Crescent 4-Day Cooking School Will Open at Rio Theater May 10

COOKING EXPERT

This pleasant-faced woman will soon be as familiar to homemakers of Appleton and vicinity as her own faces in a mirror, for she is Miss Mary Ann Kidd, who will conduct the seventeenth annual Post-Crescent cooking school May 10, 11, 12 and 13, at the Rio theater. She has had 10 years experience in practical office work, combined with food management which has given her a knowledge of the necessity of budgeting in the home, and for the last three years she has been working and lecturing on home management, testing new appliances, equipment and commodities, and doing research in the newer uses of foodstuffs.

Committee Won't Give Wage-Hour Bill Clear Track

House Rules Group's Action Virtually Kills Plan This Term

Washington—(AP)—The house rules committee, ignoring President Roosevelt's insistence on enactment of wage-hour legislation at this session, refused today to grant the revised wage-hour bill right-of-way to the house floor.

This action, which house leaders said virtually meant the death of the measure for this session, came at the close of two days of hearings during which the committee heard the bill defended as necessary to halt a "vicious spiral of deflation" and denounced as "arbitrary and capricious."

The bill would have fixed minimum wages at 25 cents an hour for the first year, scaling up to 40 cents at the end of three years. Hours would start at 44 per week and drop to 40 in two years.

Chairman O'Connor (D-N. Y.) said the vote was 8 to 6 against letting the bill reach the floor.

Before the committee acted, Representative Wood (D-Mo.) told the committee the initial wage of 25 cents an hour would put 2,000,000 persons to work.

Reorganization Talk

Reports circulated in the senate today that administration leaders might try to revive the government reorganization program, which the house recently pigeonholed after a hard-fought contest.

Some interested house members were understood to have asked Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) to seek senate passage of a measure approved by the house last summer embodying the key provision of the side-tracked legislation. It would permit the president to reshuffle most federal agencies by executive order.

Byrnes, who piloted a broad reorganization bill successfully through the senate, commented: "I have no thought of making a new attempt to get reorganization legislation."

He added, however, that his statement did not preclude a change of opinion.

Given 12 to 18 Months For Stealing 21 Cents

Sheboygan—(AP)—Walter Teitzlaff, 23, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob and was sentenced to from 12 to 18 months in the state prison at Waupun late yesterday by Judge Henry E. Detling.

Teitzlaff was accused of striking Herbert Schmiedel, a chance acquaintance, on the head with a pop bottle after they had visited several taverns last April 7.

He was charged with taking 21 cents from the man, missing a wallet which contained several dollars.

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN

Hurry with that spring house-cleaning, women of Appleton and nearby towns! The last rug must be beaten, the last floor varnished and the last blanket aired by May 10, for that is the date of the opening session of the seventeenth annual Post-Crescent cooking school at the Rio theater. The sessions will be held at 9 o'clock each morning for four days.

The men have been allowed to monopolize the conversation for the last two weeks with talk of minnows, casting, landing-nets and flies, but now that the fishermen's party is over the women will have their turn. And with the house-cleaning done and balmy spring weather to lure them out of the house, women will welcome the opportunity to gather with their friends for informal lessons on cookery and homemaking the second week in May.

Introducing as its new lecturer this year, Miss Mary Ann Kidd of Atlanta, Ga., the Post-Crescent is following the old adage that "Variety is the spice of life." Miss Kidd studied home economics at Georgia State College for Women, the University of Chicago, Fanny Farmer School of Cookery in Boston and in Washington, D. C., where she and the women of Appleton and vicinity, one of the capital's best known newspapers.

Practical, Helpful

Because she combines exceptional training with natural ability and a genuine love of her work, Miss Kidd is an ideal person to conduct the cooking school. She will be ready and eager to answer questions which her audience may put to her during the course of the day school, and her demonstrations will be practical and helpful not only to the homemaker who has modern equipment in her kitchen and an unlimited food budget, but also to the woman who has to watch the pennies and use every bit of the left-overs to stretch the budget.

So begin now to plan for this 4-day event, May 10-11-12 and 13, which has become a gala occasion to the women of Appleton and vicinity. Arrange your household duties.

Order Reduction In Freight Rates

Action Expected to Help Badger Shippers Regain Southern Markets

Madison—(AP)—The public service commission announced today that the interstate commerce commission had reduced freight rates from 10 to 15 per cent on Wisconsin shipments to southern areas.

The ruling, the commission said, will save Wisconsin farmers and manufacturers thousands of dollars a year, and will enable them to enter markets of the south to regain business lost 10 years ago.

The federal commission at that time excluded all of the state, with the exception of the area lying south of Milwaukee, from low-rate territory which included Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and other states, the commission said.

As a result important agricultural and industrial centers in Wisconsin lost more than half of their business in the south, the commission said. Commissioners testified at an I.C.C. hearing in 1925 that the rule placed most of Wisconsin at a disadvantage.

Important shipping points which will be affected include Fond du Lac, LaCrosse, Wisconsin Rapids, Green Bay, Manitowish, Marinette, Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, West Bend, Ashland, Beaver Dam, Camp Douglas, Eau Claire, Ladysmith, Marshfield, Portage, Prairie du Chien, Rhineland, Waupaca, Wausau and areas surrounding these cities.

Railroads Act To Cut Wages 15 Pct. July 1

Estimate Action Will Mean Saving of 250 Million Annually

CITE REVENUE LOSS

Association Also Points to Increase in Operating Costs

Chicago—(AP)—The Association of American Railroads adopted today a resolution under the railway labor act to serve notice of a 15 per cent wage reduction effective July 1 for all classes of labor.

The cut would represent a saving of $250,000,000, annually to member roads, the association said.

In a memorandum, the association stated the wage cut was necessary because of loss of revenue and increases in operating costs.

Revenue losses the association laid to a decline in traffic, diversion of traffic to competing forms of transportation and in adequacy of the recent freight rate raise allowed by the interstate commerce commission.

Operating Costs Higher

Operating costs were higher, the memorandum said, because of advanced payrolls due to the 1937 wage increases and adjustments, costly and restrictive interpretations placed on working rules by a judgment board particularly for employees in the transportation group, legislative expenses accrued in opposing regulatory measures, materials and supplies costs.

The memorandum said that in determining the amount of the wage reduction to be sought for approximately 1,000,000 workers serious consideration was given the present financial condition of the carriers which it said was "even more desperate than it was in January, 1932, when a deduction of 10 per cent from paychecks was accepted voluntarily by the employees."

In the four months ended in January, 1938, the net operating income

Kimberly Man Pays $50 And Costs; License Is Revoked for Year

Kaukauna—Henry Langenberg, Kimberly, pleaded guilty of drunken driving yesterday afternoon in justice court before Justice of the Peace Abe Goldin and was fined $50 and costs. Offered an alternative of sixty days in the Outagamie county detention camp, he paid the fine. Langenberg was fined on January 27, 1937, before Justice Goldin on the same charge.

He was given a similar fine yesterday under the state law and his driving license was ordered revoked for one year. The state fine was remitted upon payment of the city fine.

The motorist was arrested at 3:30 Thursday morning at Ninth street and Crooks avenue. He knocked down five mailboxes coming into the city on Highway 55, police said.

Advertising Costs of Utilities to Be Studied

Madison—(AP)—The public service commission said today it had directed its accounting and finance department to make a study to determine what part of the $300,000 advertising cost reported by large Wisconsin public utilities is properly an operating expense to be charged against customers and what amount should be paid by stockholders.

The commission said returns from the 40 largest water, gas, and electric utilities, having an annual income in excess of $700,000, indicated approximately $500,000 was spent last year for newspaper, magazine, and other kinds of advertising.

France and Britain Reach Agreement On Program to Help Reich's Neighbors

London—(AP)—The premiers of Britain and France today concluded a vital two-day conference in which they forged a mighty entente designed to keep the peace of Europe by virtue of its own strength.

Having agreed on a pooling of their vast armed strength in the world's greatest defensive alliance, the conferees ended their conversations shortly before 5 o'clock p. m.

The two governments then announced a general agreement to defend their common democracy and to seek "a peaceful and just solution of problems" in central Europe.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Premier Edouard Daladier, it was officially declared, agreed on continued discussions by their general staffs "as far as may be necessary" to coordinate their armed forces.

The French approved the Anglo-Italian accord signed at Rome April 16.

A communique said both countries felt that "the Mediterranean appeasement" thus affected would facilitate the withdrawal of foreign soldiers and arms from the Spanish civil war.

Previously they had drafted many outlines of plans to link their army, navy and air force resources against any threat of invasion to either.

The moral force of this combination strengthened their hands as they turned to the question of safe-

LaFollette Dedicates New National Party to 'Freedom and Security'

Action at Madison Threatens Split in Roosevelt Followers

LABOR BIG FACTOR

Possibility Seen That Roosevelt May be Forced to Run

Washington—(AP)—LaFollette demands for party realignment behind a new banner of Progressivism raised a threat of serious schism today in the political forces which President Roosevelt welded into a huge Democratic majority.

To what extent will the Democratic party leadership, its ranks discussion-torn and rebellious, be able to retain support of 1936's mixed political bed-fellows?

Will John L. Lewis' CIO walk out with the LaFollette group into "the National Progressives of America?"

Will the American Labor party heed the LaFollette call to abandon "reactionaries in both old parties?"

On answers to such questions hinged the success of the new Progressive party, Democratic chances to retain the White House in 1940, Republican opportunities to build upon slender congressional minorities toward capturing the national administration two years hence.

Involved in the outcome, too, was the possibility that events might draw Franklin D. Roosevelt into a third term race.

This possibility already had been mentioned by Senator Norris, Nebraska independent who supported the senior Robert M. LaFollette when he sought the presidency on a Progressive ticket in 1924.

Norris has supported Democratic presidential tickets since that time. He had no immediate comment on Governor Philip F. LaFollette's announcement in Madison, Wis., last night that a national Progressive party had been formed.

One of the first reactions to the governor's address to 5,000 followers brought an interpretation that the LaFollette must expect to draw heavily on 1936 Roosevelt supporters for party recruits.

Senator Pope (D-Idaho), staunch administration supporter, expressed

Asks $5,000,000 for Two New Battleships

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today to appropriate $5,000,000 at once to start construction of two new, replacement battleships.

His request was included in a letter to Speaker Bankhead asking for a $25,597,000 appropriation for the navy department for the rest of the fiscal year ending June 30. The president's request was accompanied by a letter from Daniel Bell, acting budget bureau director explaining how the fund would be used.

"These estimates," President Roosevelt wrote Bankhead, "include $5,000,000 to provide for the laying down of two additional replacement battleships, authorized by the act approved March 27, 1934, in furtherance of the recommendations regarding the expansion of our national defense program, contained in my message to the congress of January 26, 1933."

Italian Paper Scores 'Hostility' in America

Rome—(AP)—The authoritative fascist editor, Virginia Gayda, criticizing the United States for what he termed "hostile manifestations" toward Italy, today demanded whether the American people desire "war" with Italy.

In a three-column, front-page editorial in the Giornale d'Italia, the widely quoted writer took particular exception to representative Byron Scott's proposal that violators of the Kellogg pact be identified as "aggressors."

Also included as "hostile manifestations" cited by Gayda were an article by Ernest Hemingway, regarded as reflecting on the valor of Italian troops in Spain, speeches by Secretary Ickes and William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, and statements by Admiral William D. Leahy regarding Italian-German designs on South America.

Cashier Borrowed From Clintonville and Marion Banks to 'Cover Up'

Madison—(AP)—State Banking Commissioner H. F. Ibach reported today he had solved the mystery of a $9,800 shortage in the accounts of W. A. Herzfeld, cashier of the Clintonville State bank, who committed suicide a week ago.

Ibach said Herzfeld had borrowed this amount from two outside banks April 19 to cover up and after a bank examiner had verified the cash in the vault, the cashier withdrew the money and returned it. The banks from which he had obtained the funds on unrecorded cashier's checks, Ibach said, were the First National of Marion and the First National of Clintonville.

The shortage was in addition to another defalcation of $23,475.50 which Ibach said the cashier had admitted.

Herzfeld left the bank last week while the examiner was at work and his body was found the next day in a woods near the city.

Ibach said a complete audit would be necessary to determine whether there are any other shortages.

Phil Rises to Pinnacle of Oratorical Career in His Address at State Capital

STARTS NEW PARTY

Governor Philip F. LaFollette at Madison last night launched a new party, the National Progressive Party of America. He said the party would fight for the "heritage" of the American people—the right of every American "to earn his living by the sweat of his brow."

Will File Letters

If you are one of those who wrote to the governor at his request during the last few months on the new party plan, your letter will become a legacy to posterity.

"They will be filed as a historical record of this day," he said.

All of the panoply of a national convention attended the meeting. Bands, cheerleaders, General Immel's national guardsmen, drum and bugle corps, every resource available to the governor, were present.

Madison—(AP)—Governor Philip LaFollette's lieutenants disclosed today that Iowa and California are his immediate objectives in the organization of the new Progressive party outside Wisconsin.

Next will follow intensive campaigns in Illinois, the two Dakotas, Minnesota and Nebraska. The Progressives also have their eyes on several other midwestern states and now have the support of the Republican party of Iowa to change its name to the Progressive party.

His associates said he would go to California within the next six weeks to support the campaign of Rexford Haight for governor on the Progressive ticket.

The first step in organization procedure was a thorough study of the election laws of all states to determine what legal obstacles must be met in getting the Progressive party label on the ballot.

LaFollette's legal aids said they expected great handicaps in some states, but in the midwest, in New York and in California the problem, already has been solved by third party movements.

The Progressive party emblem has been trade-marked in every state of the Union.

Nazis Bring Pressure On Jewish Business Men

A high source indicated today that such is the primary aim of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goerring's decree requiring Jews to register with the government the extent of their wealth.

"There is no thought of confiscation of Jewish property," the informant said. "We want first of all to know exactly what assets are in Jewish hands and then we want to administer these assets through Aryan hands, and let the Jew live on guaranteed interest of 3 1/2 per cent."

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD

Madison—For sheer oratorical brilliance and religious fervor: Wisconsin's young Governor LaFollette last night put on an exhibition of political evangelism which may be rated with the best of two generations of American spell-binders, probably the best since William J. Bryan's "Cross of Gold" classic in 1896.

In razor-edge condition after a week of meticulous preparation, he rose to a pinnacle of his public-speaking career in an hour and a half oration which might make him a candidate for the presidency of the United States. Jaunty, self-confident, with an imperious manner, tousled hair, and gestures which made him more than ever resemble his famous father, LaFollette engrossed a crowd which filled every available seat, jammed the aisles and overflowed into the outside cold, with masterful theatrical delivery.

Admiring, old-time wheelhorses of the Progressive machine, including old men who helped the senior LaFollette in his numerous campaigns, sat through the long speech with satisfied smiles.

"I voted for your father for president; I'll vote for you," they told the governor.

Roosevelt Refuses Further Comment On Progressives

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt told reporters today he would stand on his comment of last Tuesday, when asked his reaction to formation of a new Progressive party by Governor Philip F. LaFollette of Wisconsin.

At his Tuesday press conference the president said the more liberal forces organized to promote progressive policies and action the better it would be for the country.

He had been asked at that time, aside from the LaFollette conference, whether he felt liberal groups should organize for effective political action.

Swears to Help 'American People Recapture Heritage' AGAINST 'CODDLING'

Urges 'National Balance Sheet' For U. S. Industry

Securities Commissioner Offers Plan to Help Manufacturers

Washington—(P)—John W. Hanes, securities commissioner and an administration business adviser, advocated a "national balance sheet" for industry today as a means of stabilizing production and employment.

Hanes disclosed that the plan, designed to help manufacturers balance their output of goods with anticipated demand, was being studied by the 18 bankers, industrialists and insurance executives who pledged their aid in bringing about closer coordination of government and business.

Other economic developments in the capital included:

1. President Roosevelt was reported to be considering creation of an "inner council" of business men to consult with him on economic problems.

Full Publicity
When questioned about the report, however, Mr. Roosevelt said he was not personally considering such an "inner" group.

2. The justice department said it would give full publicity to future anti-trust cases to give business men both "guides and warnings" on the type of acts which may be considered violations of these statutes.

3. Senate conservatives said they would seek to place control of the administration's new public works program under Chairman Jesse James of the Reconstruction Finance corporation instead of Secretary Ickes, who heretofore has directed the PWA.

Talk of the possibility of an "inner council" of influential business leaders had been current among some of the president's more conservative advisers, who have urged that if the present program to improve business conditions is to succeed, it must be with the aid of private industry.

Mention Possible Men
Among those mentioned for membership on such a council were Brigadier-General Robert E. Wood of Chicago, president of Sears, Roebuck and Company; Frank C. Worley, New York attorney and former director of the national emergency council; Robert W. Woodruff, president of the Coca Cola company; and O. Max Gardner, former North Carolina governor and now general counsel for the Cotton Textile Institute.

President Roosevelt, meanwhile, put the finishing touches on his anti-monopoly message, which he expected to send to congress either this afternoon or early next week.

Some informed persons said that, contrary to previous expectations, the message might ask some legislation at this session. It was understood that a bill, covering some points of revising the laws, was being prepared.

Congressional Probe
The impression prevailed, however, that the principle recommendation would be for a congressional investigation of the anti-trust statutes.

Assistant Attorney General Thurman W. Arnold, announcing the new publicity policy in a speech in New York last night, declared the field of anti-trust law was "as admittedly uncharted in knowledge as the conception of reckless driving on the highway."

His speech left no doubt that the administration would pursue its anti-trust campaign vigorously despite the demands in some industrial quarters for a respite from all legislation affecting business.

Need Enforcement
"It is my conviction," Arnold said, "that from a long range point of view the vigorous enforcement of anti-trust laws is never more important than during periods of economic recession. Such periods give the larger and stronger firms new incentives and easier opportunities for extending their control over a narrow market."

"It is during these periods that the smaller firms, weakened by declining sales and profits, are more susceptible to destruction as the result of practices denounced by the anti-trust laws."

In discussing other questions of justice department policy in prosecutions, Arnold said that antitrust cases should be judged by "results in restraint of trade" rather than by the "intent which lies behind them," that under the present laws criminal procedure is more effective than civil procedure in checking violations.

State Farm to Carry Out Record Game Production

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The state conservation department said this week that propagation activities at the state experimental game and fur farm at Poyette are in full stride, and that this year will witness the largest production program of game birds and animals in the history of the game division of the department.

Pheasant production alone this year will net a total of almost half a million eggs, Superintendent H. B. Kellogg said, compared with last year's total of 267,000.

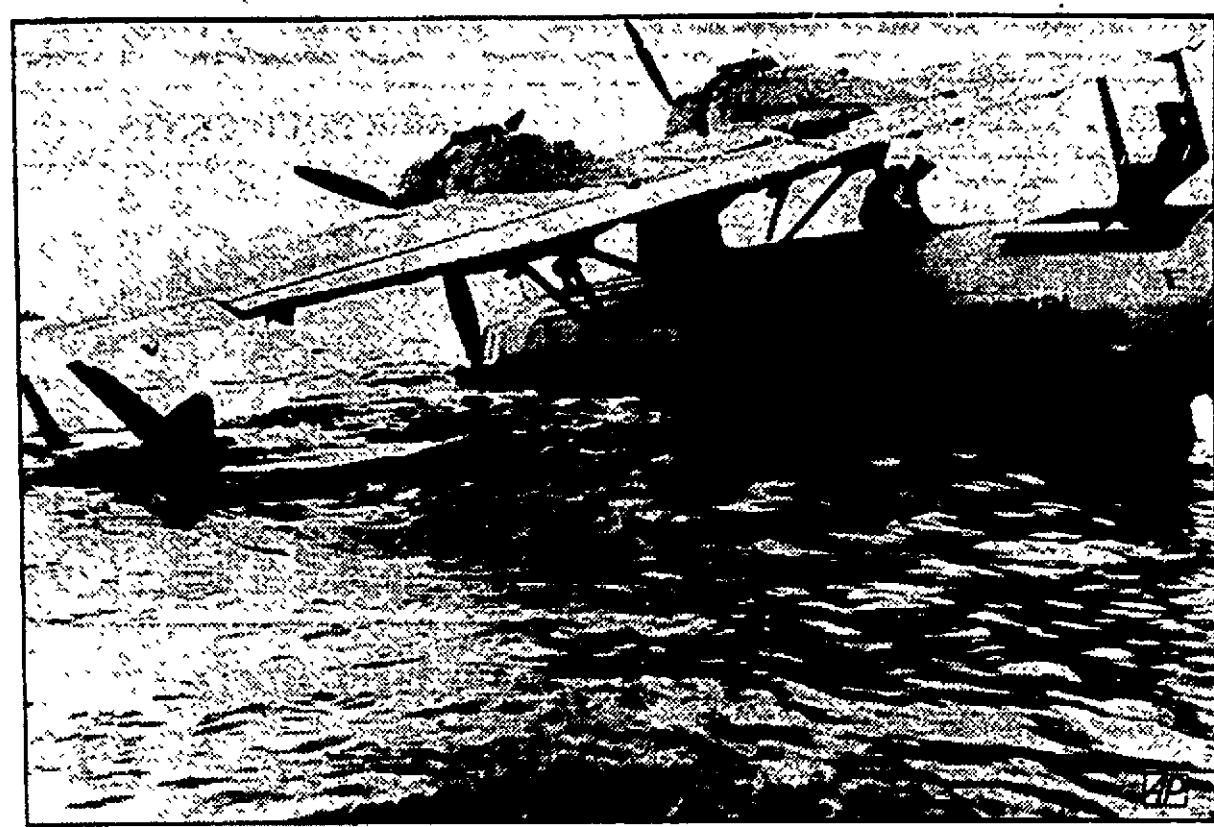

When hatching activities begin early next month about 18,000 baby chicks will be taken off the incubator every third day, until the end of the incubation season in the middle of July. Production activities at the farm will supply many thousands of birds to be liberated from the farm and also about 100,000 day old chicks to be distributed throughout the state in cooperation with local sportsmen's and conservation clubs.

Need Warden's Approval
"In line with the enormous production program contemplated, it will be necessary for the department to carry out a judicious distribution program," said Superintendent Kellogg.

"According to the new policy, all applications for pheasant eggs, day old chicks and mature birds must first receive the approval of the county conservation warden in the county in which the distribution is to be made."

The department announced that great numbers of applications for the chicks have already been received, and that further applications should be made directly to the officials at the Poyette game farm headquarters.

The farm now has 11,000 breeding hens and 2,500 cock pheasants. A total of 1,800 breeding pairs is available to handle the birds.

Sidelights on Gathering Launching New U. S. Party

Madison—(P)—The new N. P. A. party almost was launched without its chairman, Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis. Caught in a milling crowd outside the hall, the judge could make no progress forward or back, and guards at the door laughed when well-meaning friends chided: "The judge is out here, open the door." It was not until these friends convinced a policeman, the chairman was outside that the door slid open a few feet and the judge stepped in—almost without his coat—a little girl had a hold on it.

Governor LaFollette entered the hall accompanied by Gordon Sinykin, his former legal and press relations counsel. The governor wore a dark, double-breasted suit, white shirt, and dark tie.

Mrs. LaFollette sat smilingly in the first row with her two small children, Robert, 11, and Judith, 9. She wore a corsage of red and white roses at her shoulder.

Horace Wilke, 20, University of Wisconsin student and son of Regent president Harold M. Wilke, suffered a leg injury and lacerations to his face when he fell from a window ledge while climbing into the stock pavilion. He was taken to a hospital.

The press outside the doors was so great that several people fainted. They were taken away for first aid in ambulances which were parked nearby.

Four men reported to police they lost their purses to pickpockets in the mass meeting crowd. The victims and reported losses were: George E. Faustfelder, Janesville, $175; C. A. Mosser, LaCrosse, $100; Horace Fries, Madison, $20, and W. R. Bobersmidt, Madison, $12.

A press section in front of the speakers stand accommodated more than 100 newspaper men, photographers, and news reel men.

Among visitors from Washington were Congressman and Mrs. Thomas Amlic who sat only a few seats removed from the speakers' stand.

William Robbins of Madison, said more than 4,000 persons paid a dollar apiece for the insignia button of the new party—becoming charter members. The button is circular—a red border, white center, and a "ballot box X" in blue superimposed on the white.

Madison's two leading hotels reported every room taken. Restaurants and coffee shops served capacity crowds many patrons waiting in line until others finished and made room for them. Taxis also profited handsomely.

guards against war dangers in central Europe, where Nazi expansion imperils Czechoslovakia, France's ally.

Details of the military merger were left to the general staffs of the two powers, but the ministers were believed to have drawn the broad lines for French control of the allied armies and British direction of the navies and air forces.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, for Britain, Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, for France, drafted the new common front against the war peril. Their conference, begun yesterday, was to end tonight.

Prevent Strangulation
The French put forward the proposals for help to Czechoslovakia and other Danubian states to prevent strangulation by Germany. Whether the British had agreed fully was not disclosed, but it was understood Chamberlain and Halifax looked favorably on broad lines of such a campaign.

The combined French and British armies contemplated by the agreement on pooling of defense forces would make 1,230,000 men available immediately on the outbreak of war.

Behind this, however, would be France's reserves, estimated at 7,000,000, and Britain's reservoirs of men of fighting age, put at 9,000,000, the greatest potential army in the world.

Even greater importance is attached to pooling of navies and air forces, probably under British direction. The navies would total nearly two million tons, built or building.

Increase Airforces
Both powers are adding feverishly to their air forces, but France now has 1,400 first line planes and 900 in reserve. Britain is known to be working toward an objective much higher than the total previously announced—1,750 first line planes by March, 1939.

of citizens "to face their declining years free from the fear of want" and the right of individuals to receive for their work "an income which the full productive capacity of society can afford."

"I believe that these principles should reaffirm these principles and declare that it is their solemn determination to force a national political instrumentality which will safeguard these rights," LaFollette said, adding:

"I have faith in the future destiny of our nation. Our purpose should be to reclaim for the average citizen and his family a fair share in the abundant wealth, comfort, and leisure which our natural resources and developed machinery of production—under a sane, equitable system of distribution—will provide for all."

Present-Day Issue
"Today it is an issue between Progressives who favor the widest possible enjoyment of our abundant wealth, and reactionaries in both old parties, who would go back to the discredited system of withholding the very necessities of life by monopolistic control of production and distribution, in order to maintain unimpaired profits."

"The outcome of this contest will determine whether the American people are to go forward with an even higher standard of living and wider opportunity, or remain chained to a system that sacrifices human values to speculative gain."

"Progressives, let us appeal to the men and women voters of the nation, regardless of class, creed, or former party allegiance, to unite in rededicating government to American principles, and to band together to fight with unswerving determination the tyranny of communism and fascism, confident that a full and abundant life for all the people can be attained when the will of the people shall be the law of the land."

Favor Huge Air Bases in Alaska And Along Coasts

Congressional Chiefs Would Use Part of Pump-Priming Fund

Washington—(P)—Congressional leaders disclosed today the war department wants to use part of President Roosevelt's "pump-priming" fund to construct giant army air bases for Alaska and American coasts.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee said he would ask the house appropriations committee tomorrow to set aside $120,000,000 for this purpose and for improvement of existing air bases and army posts.

Representative Woodrum (D-Va.), an influential member of the appropriations committee, said the "pump-priming" bill probably would be worded to permit use of the funds for the aviation program.

Favor Huge Air Bases in Alaska And Along Coasts

Congressional Chiefs Would Use Part of Pump-Priming Fund

Washington—(P)—Congressional leaders disclosed today the war department wants to use part of President Roosevelt's "pump-priming" fund to construct giant army air bases for Alaska and American coasts.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee said he would ask the house appropriations committee tomorrow to set aside $120,000,000 for this purpose and for improvement of existing air bases and army posts.

Representative Woodrum (D-Va.), an influential member of the appropriations committee, said the "pump-priming" bill probably would be worded to permit use of the funds for the aviation program.

For 500 to 1,000 Planes
May said one base would be located in Alaska, probably close to Fairbanks. Army officials have recommended that it be equipped to accommodate between 500 and 1,000 planes.

Earlier this week the navy department asked congress for more than $5,000,000 to establish a naval air base on Kodiak island in Alaska bay.

A 1935 act also authorizes bases in the Atlantic northeast, the Atlantic southeast and Caribbean areas for the defense of the Panama canal, the southeastern states proper, the Rocky Mountain area and the Pacific northwest. Work on the latter base, near Tacoma, Wash., already has been started.

Threaten Filibuster
May said the war department had assured him that if the funds were made available, work could be started on the entire program within 30 days.

The billion-dollar navy expansion bill meanwhile encountered threats of a senate filibuster, and administration leaders applied additional pressure to bring it to a vote.

Democratic Leader Barkley ordered a Saturday session, and said also he might insist on a meeting this evening.

Senator Holt (D-W. Va.), an opponent of the measure, predicted that a filibuster might develop if night sessions were called.

Urging the United States to make a "realistic effort" to obtain a limitation of armaments by international agreement, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) yesterday called the expansion proposal "an idle bluff to be used in some sort of diplomatic game."

Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) declared the talk of danger from foreign attacks had no basis in fact.

"Not In Danger"
"Before more billions for armaments are saddled on the taxpayers, before we give way to this hysteria," he said, "the people of the United States should realize that the country is not in danger of attack now or in the visible future."

LaFollette expressed the belief that President Roosevelt, not the navy department, initiated the expansion program.

Senator Capper (R-Kans.) expressed a fear that the naval program meant the nation was "going into world politics in a big way."

Largest audience of the day was claimed by Senator Bulow (D-D.), who scattered dry wit throughout his second major speech in eight years.

Instead of building battleships, Bulow said, the United States ought to "plant a lot of spinach and keep the country healthy."

Japanese Facing Stubborn Enemy

Chinese Constantly Sending New Forces Against Nipponese

Shanghai—(P)—While Japan celebrated Emperor Hirohito's thirty-seventh birthday his weary soldiers in south Shantung province continued an indecisive battle today which was boosting Chinese hopes of achieving a stalemate or repeating the Taierchwang victory.

Neutral observers said Japanese were encountering stubborn resistance near Pihshien, Taierchwang and Tancheng, on a 30-mile front flung across the Yi river.

The great manpower of the Chinese army again was the most important factor in the warfare as fresh regiments constantly were being sent against the tired Nipponese, who had been fighting steadily for nine days since the capture of Lini.

Progress by Yards
Japanese were making progress only by yards in their advance toward the Lunghai railway, east-west nerve center of the front in central China.

They still had about 10 miles to go to reach the objective.

The advance was at such cost of men and munitions that foreign military observers expressed doubt whether it could succeed without heavy additional reinforcements.

Chinese were profiting from the advice of their foreign military advisers, they said, engineering at times methodical retreats, avoiding frontal assaults as much as possible and developing mobile flanking thrusts.

Provided the Japanese could be made to pay a price high enough, a Chinese retreat to the Lunghai, in the opinion of these observers, might be tantamount to a victory.

War Horse of Harding Days Softened by Years

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Sarasota, Fla.—There was a gentle, kind old man stopping at the inn on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico a few days ago who somehow looked familiar and turned out to be Harry Daugherty, the attorney general and tough guy of the Warren G. Harding presidency. Time has changed Mr. Daugherty. He is 76 years old now and softened up by the blows of personal and political tragedy. His wife died after 23 years of invalidism; his son, Draper, the pride and hope of his younger days, died some years ago, and of course the smash and scandal of the Harding administration left scars even on the cool iron hide of a man who was more furiously hated by more personal enemies, I suppose, than any other American since Abraham Lincoln.

One was assigned to follow Mr. Daugherty to Miami and wherever else he might go at a time when there was some thought that he might jump the country and hole up in some banana port to avoid examination as a witness in certain phases of the Ohio regime in Washington.

Knowing that Mr. Daugherty was very sick, and wanting not to be a nuisance, I proposed to him after several days' surveillance that we make a deal. I was to let him alone and he promised to tell me in good time when he was leaving and where he was going. A week later he telephoned that he was going back to Washington that night, and that was all there was to it.

But the old man chuckled the other night as we sat in the dark on the front porch at the thought of a reporter trailing an attorney general of the United States who had William J. Burns and his department fly cops doing the same to many worthy citizens. He had J. Edgar Hoover, too, and Gaston Means, the foulest crook, at a rough estimate, that this country has ever produced.

Mr. Daugherty has been blind in one eye and deaf in one ear for many years, and now his good eye and ear are none too good, but good enough, at that, says he, to see and hear the little good that there is in the world. He lives almost altogether in the past now, in the company of men who have died since the Ohio crowd went whooping into Washington with prohibition and Wayne Wheeler.

Came To Be Personal Boss Of U. S. President

In his time he ripped and slashed for power and came on to be the personal boss of a president of the United States, so it was a little comic that night when the woman with the little boy planned to go to the movies and the old-time tyrant told her to run right along and not worry, for he, Harry Daugherty, personally would sit up in the rocker in the dark at the foot of the little boy's bed and watch over him.

I mean no wrong to Mr. Daugherty when I say that irresistibly I was reminded of Damon Runyon's story of the retired safe blower and the kid, called "Butch Minds the Baby." He said the little boy looked just like his boy Draper at the same age, and he would like to sit in the dark and rock and cover him if he stirred or get him a drink—or anything.

Next day Karl Bickel came over—Bickel, the ex-president of the United Press, who battled around the world for years and years and clawed his way to the top in tough competition, and then suddenly checked it to retire to a drowsy sunny little town 'way down the Florida gulf coast and putter in little interests such as the Cabana club and Don Halton's free clinic for the sorrowful children of the pure Anglo-Saxon backwoods crackers.

Since $5 overhead to detach a cracker child from his or her adenoids and tonsils and free the patient of hookworm, and the doctor, whose services are tossed in free, is now working on his last batch in the entire county, a group of 20.

Dog Caught Rabbit

And Then Lost Interest

Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Bickel sometimes sat in the sun, two retired guys who were fierce and fast in action so short a time ago, talking like Noah and the hero of the Johnstown flood, of times gone past. And there was a man in the placid little community who went about leading a soft-eyed gentle old greyhound on a leash.

"Nice dog you have there," Mr. Bickel said, "is he a racing dog?"

"He was," the man said. "He was a racing dog. His name is Smiles. He was a very good, fast dog, but one night he caught the rabbit. After that they lose interest. They discover that the thing they have been chasing so hard is just a phoney, and they just lie down in the box and watch the other dogs run, like saying: "Go ahead and run yourselves ragged for a mess of hair and sawdust!"

Both Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Bickel took a liking to Smiles, and he would stretch out in some shady spot, sigh deeply and go to sleep.

A light to heavy frost tonight, fair and warmer tomorrow is the forecast for Appleton and vicinity issued today by the Milwaukee weather bureau.

For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest temperature in the city was 64 and the lowest, at 5:30 this morning, 39, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 52 degrees. The sky cleared noticeably during the morning and early afternoon.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 96, and Modena, with 92, were the warmest and coldest places in the nation yesterday.

14 Local Yachtsmen at Fond du Lac Meeting

A group of 14 Appleton boat owners attended the banquet of the Fox River Valley Power Boat Owners association meeting last night in Hotel Rellaw at Fond du Lac. About 400 men were present.

The group voted approval of the water carnival which will be held next month at Kaukauna and promised good attendance. Frank Chapman, Berlin, was principal speaker, relating experiences of a yacht trip down the Mississippi river and on the Caribbean sea.

Highway Body Receives Bids on Road Projects

The state highway commission received bids today on six construction projects to cost about $246,000. Unofficial low bids for work in this area were submitted by two Milwaukee companies. Frank Maishuda, Milwaukee, submitted a bid of $19,330.49 to grade, drain and gravel .34 of a mile on Highway 29 in Waupaca county. A bid of $78,194 was submitted by the Krump Construction company, Milwaukee, to grade and drain 6.245 miles of Highway 42 in Manitowish county.

UNION PARTY MEETING

A meeting of the Union party will be held tonight at the county courthouse. Nicholas A. West is secretary of the Outagamie county group.

founded... on the ancient principle that a chosen few (whether from the top or bottom of the economic ladder) shall make the decisions and rule by force."

"Our world moves toward war, chaos and barbarism. What then are we to do?"

Seeking the answer, LaFollette said, thousands of average men and women from every walk of life conferred over many months and "it is their decision that brings us here tonight."

He announced the decision to create a new party in these dramatic words:

"A beginning has been made, here and now, not in 1944, not in 1940, but now, in 1938.

"The National Progressives of America are now organized. State by state we shall build as rapidly as firm foundations can be laid. Definitely and irrevocably we are in the lists to stay until the American people recapture their heritage."

Labor Attitude May Determine New Party Fate

sed the belief that the Progressive movement would not gain much headway this year "because it would have to draw from the strongest supporters of the president." But Pope added:

"If in 1940 the conservative Democrats are able to nominate a candidate for president and gain control of the party, I would expect a powerful third party movement to develop."

Further indications the new Progressive party expected to woo left-wing Democrats were in Governor LaFollette's speech itself. He evidenced a political respect, if not more, for the popular support which reelected Mr. Roosevelt 46 states to 2 who enshrine of the president's "brilliant leadership," blamed party dissension for hamstringing his administration, and summed up by saying leadership alone "can not mix political oil and water."

In the same vein was the statement here of the governor's brother, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, that the issue posed was between "progressives" and reactionaries in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Similarly, Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis, chairman of the Madison meeting, referred to Mr. Roosevelt as "one of the great presidents of the United States."

Senator King (D-Utah), a member of the Democratic conservative bloc which has opposed some major Roosevelt recommendations, questioned growth of the Progressive party but advanced an argument differing from Pope's.

King predicted the LaFollette movement would "not make much headway" because "there is no reason for a third party unless it is one which wants to go clear over to socialism or communism."

Few Washington observers looked for much concrete testimony on the new party's strength at 1938 polls. The congressional elections presented an opportunity to measure its future, however, not so much by the number of Progressive ballots as by primary showings of anti-Roosevelt Democrats and Republican inroads on house seats.

Speculation has only just begun on who will be the "Progressive" choice for the White House in 1940. In an interview today Senator Norris (I-Neb.), suggested again that the new Progressive party might endorse President Roosevelt for a third term.

"I think we should consider very carefully whether a third party can carry out the progressive principles for which President Roosevelt stands and on which the people have twice elected him by overwhelming majorities," the veteran independent said.

"Some of the people in Mr. Roosevelt's own party—at least those in congress—don't seem to want the president's program."

Would Back Roosevelt

Norris, speaking slowly and thoughtfully, added that "a new party should deal with the same things that the president believes in and that the country has endorsed."

"One outcome of the movement would be to endorse the president for a third term."

Norris said that the new party also might well seek to oppose those members of congress who "were elected on the president's program and since then haven't been willing to support it."

Norris reiterated his previously-expressed prediction that if a bloc of Republicans and conservative Democrats succeed in blocking Mr. Roosevelt's legislative program "there will be a great upsurge of the people demanding that he seek a third term."

"The demand would be so overwhelming that the president could not refuse," Norris asserted.

Further items for study listed were mergers and interlocking relationships, financial controls, investment trusts, trade associations, patent laws, tax correctives and others.

ties so that you will have your mornings free to attend the cooking school. The morning sessions have been found to be much more convenient for most homemakers than afternoon meetings, because many husbands and school children do not come home for the noon meal, or if they do, they prefer a light lunch which is quickly prepared. Then too, under the present plan, it is not necessary to postpone afternoon bridge, study or sewing clubs or otherwise disrupt the usual feminine schedule.

If you are a newcomer to Appleton and have never attended a Post-Crescent cooking school, just ask your next-door neighbor about it and she'll tell you the fun, good-fellowship and the vast store of valuable information the "old grads" of the cooking school have as they return year after year for the "annual reunion." There is no formally about these gatherings. The women make up parties of their friends, come together, visit until the lessons begin and have a thoroughly enjoyable time.

Call your friends, make up your parties and become a part of the festivity at the seventeenth annual Post-Crescent cooking school Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, May 10, 11, 12 and 13, at the Rio theater.

Railroads Plan 15 Per. Wage Cut of Class 1 railroads, the statement said, was $13,710,622, or 10 per cent below that earned in the four months ended in January, 1932.

"Even more significant," the memorandum continued, "is the fact that net railway operating income in January, 1938, fell 38 per cent below that of January, 1932. In this connection it must be remembered that the carriers' 1931 request for wage reduction was prompted by the inadequacy of railway net earnings in the latter part of that year."

The railroads announced they would give formal notice of the reduction to the 21 brotherhoods at once.

A spokesman explained that if the employees refuse to accept the cut, conferences between representatives of the unions and spokesmen for the managements would be called to attempt to negotiate a settlement.

If these negotiations fail, he added, either side could move to submit the controversy to the arbitration board. If the arbitrators fail to bring about a solution, President Roosevelt would be asked to appoint a fact-finding commission.

Loyalists Claim End of Offensive

Military Observers are Skeptical About Government Reports

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier. (U)—Government commanders in all sectors of eastern Spain declared today the insurgents have abandoned their six-weeks offensive, but military observers were skeptical of the sweeping nature of their claims.

From Teruel east to the Mediterranean and from Tortosa north to the Pyrenees insurgents were inactive.

Neutral observers attributed the delay, however, to reinforcements that swept insurgent aviation from the sky and bogged down motorized equipment, as much as to the strength of government lines.

Propose Building Of Grandstand at City-Owned Field

Recreation Committee Recommends Structure on Spencer Street

The recreation committee of the city council at a meeting yesterday recommended that the city construct a grandstand at the Spencer street athletic field under a WPA project. The recommendation will be submitted at a council session Wednesday.

The committee also will recommend that a 20-foot section of bleachers be built on the baseball diamond at Drew and Roosevelt streets. It was suggested that street department workmen construct the bleachers.

It is proposed to use salvaged lumber from the old warehouse on Water street for both projects. The building was purchased by the water commission last year from the Fox River Paper company. Razing of the warehouse was proposed by the committee as a WPA project.

Approval of the plan to construct a wooden grandstand may place the proposed construction of a concrete stadium and clubhouse in the background for a few years. Plans were drawn for the proposed stadium but the proposal died in committee when the council and school board failed to reach an understanding on use of the field last fall.

"Broad discretionary power must be given to juvenile courts," Loomis said.

Labor Board Beaten On Order Requiring 250 to Be Rehired

Chicago. (U)—The United States circuit court of appeals held yesterday that the national labor relations board cannot force an employer to re-employ workers who violate agreements requiring arbitration of disputes.

The court made the ruling in rejecting the board's petition for enforcement of an order directing the Columbian Enameling and Stamping company, of Terre Haute, Ind., to reinstate 250 workers.

Judge Walter E. Treanor, a recent appointee, dissenting from the opinion written by presiding Judge A. Evans and concurred in by Judge Will M. Sparks.

"Labor has the right to quit work and strike, except when the contract calls for arbitration," Judge Evans declared, adding that the 250 employees violated such a contract by striking in 1935 on a collective bargaining issue.

The court censured the company for refusing to negotiate with conciliators. It said the company's employees were largely unionized and that under the labor act the firm should have negotiated when requested to do so.

Park Plan Awaits Approval of Board

Project Would Involve Improvement of Tract Near Grignon Home

Kaukauna—The matter of creating a park on land owned by the Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical society through NYA activity needs only the formal approval of the board of public works before work is started, Elmer Griebel, local NYA supervisor, yesterday. The project would be made the central point for work in Kaukauna, Griebel, said, and may last about three years.

The project was first brought before the common council a month ago when Mayor Lewis F. Nelson read a letter from the NYA district supervisor who said a NYA project could be started here if a supervisor's office were furnished and a project furnishing work for an extended length of time arranged.

It was stressed that no projects of transitory worth would be acceptable, as work must be of permanent value to the community.

The society owning the land, Nelson said, located northwest of the Grignon home near old Highway 41 would offer no objection to part of the 31-acre tract being made into a roadside park.

The council gave its approval to such a project, with the understanding that the city may furnish aid in some form, such as materials. An arrangement has been made for a NYA office in the public library.

Nelson estimated at the council meeting that NYA work here would mean about $5,000 to the community.

BLINDNESS NO BAR
Los Angeles—(?)—The Rev. Mr. Walter D. Kallenbach is totally blind, but that doesn't keep him from an occasional game of golf.

"Someone tinkles a tin cup and I know just about where the cup is and how hard to play the ball," he explains. "I also play horseshoes. Someone hits the peg for me and I throw toward the sound. I often get a ringer."

GOING BACK TO CAUSES AGAIN

Among other things Governor LaFollette recently said that "at the end of ten years we have not solved the fundamental problems that caused the depression." We hope the governor isn't going to spend any more time upon that subject. For the lines have been drawn up and sides chosen just as the boys picked their baseball nines when Hector was a pup.

In the early days of the depression the causes of it were figured out in answer to the spleen of the person who figured. If he was irate at a coal dealer the cause was the price of coal. If he didn't like unions it was union labor. If he was hostile to courts for some personal reason they were the cause of all our difficulties.

But as these hot flashes were themselves out the people very generally came to the conclusion that there was only one thing different about this depression, and that difference had little or nothing to do with social causes as much as it had to do with rulers who were shy on history but long on giving involved explanations to those who listened in rapt attention as they toasted their shins at the firesides.

Governor LaFollette's excursion after "the fundamental problems that caused the depression" will be more than futile because he cannot prove anything just as we cannot prove anything concerning such causes, irrespective of the strength of the opinions formed.

But he can prove something because that something is self-evident—and that is that certain policies pursued by the Administration at Washington have held us in the grip of the depression or thrown us back into the ditch every time we seemed to get a foothold on firm ground.

With the most richly endowed country in the world, with the greatest freedom in the world, and with a people who are generally no slouches in energy, excepting as paternalistic policies may have turned them into sluggards, what possible explanation can be given for America's most unhappy situation—the worst situation in the world today so far as unemployment is concerned?

How can that situation reasonably be accounted for in comparison to like periods following other drastic depressions excepting that in other days the government kept its nose out of people's business and maintained itself in a perfectly sound manner while under Mr. Roosevelt it has become a seeker after soft ways for its people, a borrower who puts everything on the cuff, and a regulator of every business under the sun when it hasn't even been able to regulate its own?

A PRIMER ON PRIMING

Ugly charges are floating out of Pennsylvania. Still uglier ones from Florida. Both of these charges concern relief fund pressure, the attempt to drive those on WPA to the polls like cattle, the threat to deprive those on relief of their bread unless they are "right."

In the realm of politics such charges must be looked over with a great deal of caution. Charges are made easily and when men run for office they often become over-excited. But support is given these charges by that printed "Form 100" entitled "Application for Indorsement by Kalamazoo (Mich.) County Democratic Committee" and which contains these questions:

"Did you vote in the primary of September, 1937? Democratic? Republican?"

"Did you vote in the primary of September, 1934? Democratic? Republican?"

"Are you a member of any Democratic organization or club? Where?"

"Did you vote in the election of November, 1934?"

"Have you contributed to any Democratic organization in Kalamazoo County? To whom? How much since August 1, 1932?"

Bruce Barton who was elected from New York City to congress, probably because he presented an unusually high type of ability, proposed to deal with this situation by an amendment to the Corrupt Practices Act making it a state's prison offense for any person in charge of the distribution of government funds to attempt to control the political actions of those who are recipients of those funds or directly affected by their distribution.

We have a law making it a criminal offense for an employer to attempt to control the political actions of those who work for him. This was written by liberals to cure a condition they charged to exist. No one expected at the time that such a charge would seem like small potatoes in comparison to what appears to be going on in this country misnamed "Priming the Pump" when its right name is "Priming the polls."

The occasional employer who tried to threaten his workers with loss of jobs if political results went against his wishes was a gentleman and a patriot in comparison to those who now on a wholesale basis are lashing with a scorpion's whip those who are dependent upon their feverish judgment for work or bread.

As Mr. Barton says, if this thing can continue "we have passed out of the state of free democracy and are entering into the 'bread and circuses' era which preceded the decline of Rome."

Meanwhile those in Washington who are the ultimate beneficiaries of this disgraceful system look out the window or are too busy with other matters to give it real and practical attention.

HIGHER EDUCATION FALTERS

The manifest injustice and inequality in the educational system prevailing in this country will not down.

President Conant of Harvard pursues the matter in a recent issue of Harper's.

Giving advanced and costly education to persons who will never use it, are unable to use it, or are opposed to using it, is assuredly something more than the wastage of costly institutions upon those who do not merit their time. It is the creation of a void in that we send the capable and the talented, the faithful and the loyal, the earnest and the deserving out to dig a useless hole in someone's back yard simply because they haven't the finances to support them while they absorb an education, and spend fortunes trying to educate those unable to comply with education's demands.

It must be remembered that Mr. Conant is the head of one of the most advanced institutions of learning in the world, sometimes too advanced, but his experience with the run of students cannot be ignored when he says that it would be a public benefit if from 25 to 50 per cent of the persons now attending the universities could be dropped out to make way for those of higher intellectual timber.

Mr. Conant inquires how we are following Thomas Jefferson's proposal that our schools be made "so democratic as to be revolutionary" when they are only as democratic today as the dollar mark, excepting insofar as scholarships are provided for the deserving.

Harvard, Mr. Conant tells us, fashions its scholarships with full data and for the purpose of fitting them to the needs of those who receive them. Some are given the aid of but a small amount of money, others receive greater sums, none knows what another receives, and each is patterned upon the information obtained by the university as to the need of the particular student, the ability of his family to help him and the opportunity he has to help himself.

We are very particular that the children of each generation shall receive a certain amount of education. We pass laws and we pay officers to enforce them, in order that youth shall receive certain intellectual training. We tell ourselves that this is done primarily for the benefit of the nation. And then we stop at the most critical point in the affair. After the student has been taken through high school it may be inconsistent with American ideals to compel him to take an advanced course in learning but it certainly is not inconsistent with those ideals to provide the opportunity for him to take that course. At this point we desert the student and we abandon the nation.

Due to this haphazard system we have some of the professions crowded but not with brilliant members.

Fortunately America may reverse this bid to the mediocre. When fully awake to the error of its methods nothing exists to prevent its abandonment of them, substituting in their place scholarships fashioned after the Conant system, that is certain specified assistance offered to those who have shown scholastic ability and depending in amount upon their resources. By the same token one may inquire whether a state like Wisconsin is very sensible in spending its millions every year to provide an army of professors to instruct young men and women whose only chance to pass an examination is an undisturbed opportunity to copy the rules off their cuffs.

CHIEF OSHKOSH COULDN'T RESTRAIN THE TOURISTS

Keshera falls was boiling over its boulders. A late summer sun beat down on the amber waters of the Wolf and the slate-gray shelf of rocks. After dinner we sat on the porch with Chief Oshkosh. Thin and feeble now, his face had its racial coppery glow and his eyes were brilliant.

We could see the rocky river banks, now reddish and glistening in the high sun, and the spray over the falls flash with color. Over the hill a party of tourists was packing up. A tall chicken-wire receptacle for refuse stood near by, but somehow the picnic plates escaped it. "Della," called the chief to his granddaughter. "Go tell those tourists to read the signs about waste paper." He turned to me. "I have made five other of those baskets," he said, "and they have all been carried off. My wife says that no doubt the people take them home and maybe put them on their pianos and say, 'See our souvenir! Chief Oshkosh made it!'"

The old chief threw back his head and his burnished face crinkled with merriment. Then he became serious. The old Indian days were gone forever, he said. "I seemed to hear the imperious beat of the drum—'Tales from an Indian Lodge' Nichols."

More than a fourth of Scotland's workers are in the ship-building, machinery, textile, iron and steel industries.

VISITORS to this community would have a heckuva time if they ever got together and compared notes . . . fr example, if a man who stopped off in Appleton on Wednesday should go back to Chicago and on Friday should discuss weather conditions with another man who was here on Thursday, the two of them would be likely to call each other liars . . . it gets back to Stoo's famous adage about waiting for five minutes . . .

THE VANISHING YOVELER

(Chicago)

While a former colleague of mine and I were discussing past experiences in our theatrical careers, we had a hearty laugh over the following incident.

My friend Peppi (now the widowed Mrs. Geo. Manderback) was touring the country with Charlie Gardner in the play "Fatherland." I happened to be playing in Sheboygan, Wis., while they were there, and took in the show. An unforgettable scene was the bass singer's echo song. He stood high up in the mountains.

The Alps were beautifully depicted and greeted with enthusiasm. Little did the audience dream that they consisted mostly of old barrels covered with painted canvas. Our hero, who was rather corpulent, stood on a barrel whose cover gave way. Luckily he had presence of mind, to keep on yodeling as he gradually vanished from sight. As his notes grew deeper and deeper, he sank lower and lower, until it seemed, the mountains had swallowed him.

The audience could not imagine, why and how he thus disappeared. At the fall of the curtain I went back stage, and can not describe the prevalent hilarity which greeted me. Members of the troupe and the stage hands were working strenuously to release our hero. He was tightly wedged in the barrel!

NEW WORDS FOR CURRENT SONGS DEPT.

Thanks for the memory of waste beyond belief; Thousands on relief; Of all the dreamy little schemes, Invented by the chief.

A New Deal, it was, Thanks for the memory of regulated wheat, Cost of what we eat; Of cotton rows plowed under, Pigs you killed and did not eat; A New Deal, it was, Many's the time that you taxed us, And many's the time that you vexed us, Playing perennial Xmas; Your race is run, the harm is done, So thanks for the memory of licensed wines and beers.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

PATTY HAS THE MEASLES!

Patty has the measles now! She is proud to know Of the sign upon her door, But her head aches so!

In her eyes we still can see Bright forget-me-nots, And all over Patty's face Blossoms little spots!

Children coming to the door Do not call her name, There is not much fun without Patty in the game!

There's a vacant desk at school, And an empty chair At the table . . . Why, we miss Patty everywhere!

But the summer suns will shine And the roses come Where a month from now a child Happily will hum.

Rivalling the birds and bees, Joyous as the dawn, Patty soon will leave her room. All the measles gone!

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CATARRH

Formerly catarrh meant inflammation of any mucous membrane. Mucous membrane lines every cavity or opening that communicates with the outside world. More recently catarrh has signified particularly inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages, chronic rhinitis.

Causes of simple chronic rhinitis are (1) living in overheated, excessively dried out atmosphere indoors most of the time; (2) overeating of refined food—too large a proportion of the calories yielded by pure starches and sugars, very diet usually deficient in minerals and vitamins which have been removed or destroyed in process of refining natural food; (3) sedentary habit and the poor circulation accompanying it; (4) damage done by frequent infection, due to popular credulity in reference to weather, drafts, dampness, sudden changes, and the like; (5) habit of wearing excessive clothing.

In the winter time when houses, offices, shops, cars, theaters and schools are artificially heated, the room temperature should be kept at 68 degrees F. If it is permitted to go to 73 or 75 most persons are sure to be stuffy from abnormal congestion of the head, whether they realize it or not. However heated, the winter air containing a fair amount of water vapor, becomes dried out and if heated above 68 degrees it becomes drier than the driest desert air ever becomes naturally. In every instance, then, where artificial heating is necessary, the air should be conditioned by the evaporation of sufficient water to keep the humidity as nearly as practicable at the level of that of an ideal autumn day—40 to 50 per cent. Generally this requires the evaporation of at least fifteen to twenty gallons of water daily in the air of an eight room house. Air-conditioning equipment now built in or installed in modern buildings works automatically. In any circumstance a simple humidifier consisting of a galvanized metal reservoir holding a few gallons of water in which hang many folds of absorbent wicking looped over a wire frame above the water, may be placed on radiator or register in each room and will evaporate a gallon or two of water daily. Ordinary vessels of water on radiators, registers or stoves, and ordinary water pots in furnaces, do not evaporate enough water to matter. Persons abnormally sensitive to chill or a sense of discomfort from cold should remember that air of fair relative humidity (35 per cent to 55 per cent) at a temperature of 65 to 68 is more comfortable than air excessively dried out (relative humidity 10 per cent to 20 per cent) at a temperature of 73 to 75 degrees. Only one who has tried it can realize the economy and hygiene of conditioning the air to maintain the "comfort zone." Every one knows how excessive dryness affects plants, furniture, book bindings; many know how harsh and irritable it makes the skin; few stop to consider that the extreme dryness of the heated air in the winter damages the delicate mucous membrane lining the respiratory tract. Here is a prolific contributing cause of chronic catarrhal trouble as well as a predisposing factor of the cold. It accounts also for many of the abnormal reactions which uninformed or misinformed laymen so naively attribute to draft, dampness, wet feet, change of weather.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This Is a Health Column

If you will give me the names of several specialists who can do so, and so . . . I am not flush with money and the fee will have to be low. (R. R. F.)

Answer—I am glad to name a competent physician or specialist when I know of one, but you'll have to arrange about fees or expenses yourself.

Made Up Husband's Mind

Husband suffered frequently from small blood vessels breaking in his eye. It looked bad, I found out that the lining of the blood vessels was weakened by smoking. He gave up smoking. They broke once about two weeks after he stopped smoking but never again. He never smoked until he was thirty and gave it up at 53. (Mrs. G.E.B.)

Answer—When a woman makes up her husband's mind he can do anything. Tobacco addicts are more successful in breaking the habit if they supplement their diet with a good ration of vitamin. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions for overcoming the habit.

Galvanic Sore Mouth

Will the use of two different metals in dental fillings cause galvanic action? Will it lead to any serious harm such as cancer? (M. B.)

Answer—Cases of sore mouth, obstinate ulcers, have been ascribed to the galvanic battery action set up by two dissimilar metals in acid saliva. Not cancer. Most economical and satisfactory in long run to have all gold fillings, or porcelain. (Copyright, 1938.)

If April 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 A. M.; from 3:45 P. M., and from 7:45 to 9:45 P. M. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 A. M.; from 5:45 to 7:45 P. M., and from 9:45 to 11:45 P. M.

Flagrant selfishness, prompted by some mercenary desire or egotism will involve many people in quarrels this day. Strive earnestly to be agreeable to everyone, concede points in argument, whenever it is possible, and retain control of your temper, if you wish to get through the day without much ado about trifles. Arriving at the wrong conclusion, may be a prevalent fault this day, so weigh carefully the evidence you hear, as well as what you see, for sometimes appearances are deceiving. Misunderstandings, in many cases can be avoided by asking questions or requesting explicit directions, for this is a day when it will pay not to be afraid to talk. An unexpected guest this day may be the medium through which a great deal of pleasure may come to you. A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Notes on statesman-ship:

Note-of-confusion: More than one person has come from the White House convinced by the affable Roosevelt manner that he has won approval for his ideas when such is not the case. If no harm results, the President intends the confusion continue.

The other day Representative Scott of California came from the White House confident that the President had approved his resolution calling for a public listing of nations which had violated treaties to which the United States was a party.

The President could not let that stand. He did not want to put in the position of initiating a move to put the nuisance nations on the spot. He told a press conference emphatically that he neither approved nor disapproved the resolution—that he just declined to pass on it.

A Snap Judgment

Note-of-suspense: President Roosevelt is getting a pair of suspenders from one of the toppest ranking style designers in America—Elizabeth Hawes of New York. It came about this way. Secretary of War Woodring was conferring with the President, and in a moment of deep thought permitted an idle thumb to slip under one of his suspenders. A loud and vibrant "snap" was the result as he pulled the elastic strap out and let it smack back against the secretarial chest.

The President was delighted no end and asked the embarrassed secretary where to get such resounding suspenders. Mr. Woodring said he would get the President an even nobler pair. Miss Hawes designed them, a creation in blue with gold stars to hold up the Presidential pants.

Traveller's note: Two senators slept off the senatorial trolley and hurried toward the senate floor.

"We are late," said one. "I guess we will miss the benefit of Reverend Phillips' blessing."

"Oh, he prays all over the universe," replied the other "so he'll reach us."

FISH SEASON'S HERE—

Fort Scott, Kas. —(P)—Fishing near here, Joe Harrington reached down from his boat to add one more, No. 16, to the string dangling in the water.

When he looked up, the 15 fish were gone. He heard a splashing near the bank and rowed to investigate.

There was his string of fish and attached to it was 41-pound bass that had tried to swallow one of those on the string.

The bass couldn't complete the job or back out.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—This is a story with a happy ending.

It concerns Lucia, who lives on Long Island and will be 15 on her next birthday. I can show you her house, and perhaps even arrange an introduction, if you are interested.

Lucia wanted to become a dancer. Always she dreamed of swirling gracefully to soft music in a circle of flame-colored light.

But when she was 11 she was cut down by infantile paralysis. The doctors said it was one of those things. . . . Maybe she would grow out of it in time. . . . Meanwhile, there must be care and attention and long years of rest. . . . You know, wheel chairs, and nurses, etc.

It wasn't so bad after she got used to it. People were kind and she had friends who told her stories about little girls who became famous dancers. They came to sit with her in the sunshine and they brought her flowers, and after a while three years went by and she was 14, almost 15. . . .

"When I get well, I'm going to do this and so," she would say. . . . "When I get well, I shall do this and that and the other." . . . Most of the conversation and all of her plans were predicated on that simple little qualifying statement: When I get well. . . .

And she believed it, though the doctors were careful not to be over-enthusiastic.

Among the callers who came to sit by her side in the sun, on cheerful days, was an old Italian who served as a handy-man around one of New York's big pet shops.

And one day he brought her a kitten, with a bow of ribbon around its neck. . . . "It's easy for me to get kittens. . . . We have them at my store. . . . I hope you like it!" . . . He didn't tell her that he had saved a few pennies from his earnings every week over a period of months to buy the kitten for her. . . . She crowed with pleasure.

Now you can afford them!

College Band Will Play at Chapel May 5

THE Lawrence college band will present its annual concert at Lawrence Memorial chapel Thursday night, May 5, under the direction of E. C. Moore.

In addition to band numbers, several solos by outstanding members of the organization will be presented. Elwood Bleick, Appleton, will play a trombone solo and Edmund Marty, Appleton, a baritone solo. One of the highlights will be the playing of "Panis Angelicus" by Franch which has been arranged for concert band by James Laux, Appleton, a senior at the conservatory. The concert will mark the premier performance of Laux's arrangement.

Although the piece, originally a vocal solo, is one of Franch's minor works, many critics regard it as one of his most beautiful.

Miss Betty Jane Winans, soprano from Glen Ellyn, Ill., will be guest artist. Miss Winans, soloist in last winter's performance of Handel's "Messiah" by the A Cappella choir, will sing two numbers. She will be accompanied by Miss Irene Hitzke of Merrill.

Serve a hard sauce flavor with candied orange peel with apple puddings.

Appleton Symphony Closes Season With Concert Under Baton of Percy Fullinwider

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN
APPLETON Symphony orchestra closed its season last night with an enjoyable program which left its listeners with pleasant memories of the group's contribution to musical entertainment in Appleton this year. The orchestra continued to follow the policy of playing familiar music as it has in the past, with the result that the average music lover may give himself wholeheartedly to the enjoyment of the pieces without straining to understand and appreciate something too heavy for any but the trained musician.

Dr. Percy Fullinwider led the orchestra expertly through the various numbers beginning with Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," a happy choice for an introduction since it is well known and well loved yet heavy enough to satisfy the most erudite. The various instruments blended smoothly throughout the long and difficult movements.

The incidental use of cymbals, tambourines and other instruments in the "Bacchanale" from "Sampson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens was very effective and the well-chosen program was climaxed by the "Orpheus Overture" by Offenbach which was particularly well received. Lighter numbers were "Sailors Hornpipe" by De Lamar which was a lively, lilting, foot-tapping rhythm, and "Dance Circassienne" by Delibes. The orchestra responded to prolonged applause by giving an encore.

Soloist last night was Miss Marie Mansfield, harpist, who presented two groups of selections between numbers by the orchestra. She opened with "Impromptu" by Faure and "Toccata" by Loebell-Grandjany, but it was in her second group that she seemed to lose a slight air of self-confidence and acquire complete self-confidence. She showed excellent technique and fine expression in "Fetie" by Tournier, and appeared to equal advantage in "Impromptu Caprice" by Piene. The audience showed its appreciation of her playing by calling for encores after each group and she responded by giving a French folk song, the old favorite, "Last Rose of Summer," and another selection.

'KING'S TIME'
London — (P) — The century-old custom of carrying the "King's Time" on the Irish Mail boat still is observed.
A packet containing a watch set to King's Time (Greenwich time now, formerly Admiralty time) is taken to the train at London and handed over to the man in charge of the mails. He hangs the watch on a nail in the baggage car.

On reaching Holyhead the watch is taken on board the boat, is signed for, and an item is entered on the train bill mentioning the exact hour at which it was handed over. The same formula is followed on the return journey.

Illinois Pastor To Begin Work at New London June 1

Dr. Kepler to Fill Congregational Pulpit Until New Preacher Arrives

New London — The Rev. H. P. Reksstad, Huntley, Ill., will begin June 1 as permanent pastor of the First Congregational church in this city. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. F. J. Pfeiffer, parish clerk and member of the pulpit committee. Dr. Thomas S. Kepler, Appleton, will continue to charge until that time. A communion service will be held Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Reksstad has been pastor at Huntley the last two years and prior to that was pastor for three years at the United Church at Irasburg, Vermont, where he was ordained in the ministry. He is a graduate of the St. Olaf college and received theological training at the Andover Newton Theological school and Harvard Divinity school, Cambridge, Mass., and will receive a degree in June from the Chicago Theological seminary which he has attended while at Huntley. He is married and has three small children.

WOODEN INDIAN DRESSED UP

New London — F. C. Rueter's locally famous cigar store Indian has a new suit of clothes, his first in five years, and will be out to greet his admiring public any day now. Anton Huettner is shown putting the delicate finishing touches to the new paint job Wednesday while Mr. Rueter follows the work critically. It took nearly a week to recondition the Chief, filling weather cracks in his hand carved torso and matching up the multi-colored hues of his Indian garb. The Chief won't be outside much, Mr. Rueter says, because the heat of the sun seems to be too much for him. Brought to New London by Henry Emde in 1876 and acquired by Rueter in 1904, the cigar store relic differs from many of those surviving in the United States in that it is hand-carved from one piece of timber. It stands 54 inches from pedestal to tip of feathers. Mr. Rueter won't venture the statue's worth but admits he's turned down many substantial offers.

Kimberly Volunteers Quick To Respond to Fire Alarms

Kimberly — When the fire siren shrieks in Kimberly, electricians lay down their work, mechanics drop their wrenches, store clerks bolt from behind counters, office workers rush from their work and filling station operators abandon their gas pumps.

All dash for the engine house in the heart of the village and in a few seconds time the 23-man fire department is in action. It is the boast of Fire Chief Alex Malcolm, Sr., that the first truck usually rolls out of the station in less than a minute after the alarm is sounded. Joseph Kramer, who resides nearby, driver of the big truck, is usually the first to arrive at the station house, and has the motor running and doors open, all set for the run at top speed.

The Kimberly Volunteer Fire department started more than twenty-five years ago when a hand-drawn 40-gallon chemical two-wheel carriage was the only apparatus the department had. Later a 300-gallon pump truck was purchased and a two-wheel chemical carriage was usually hooked on behind when answering calls.

Both of these early fire trucks were disposed of in 1923 when the department purchased the Seagrave triple combination pump truck which throws 750 gallons of water per minute.

One of the major fires in the village occurred 25 years ago March 6. It was the Kimberly hotel fire which kept the fire fighters out all night. Another, about ten years ago, when the Home Supply Company planing mill was destroyed. The fire had gained such headway that it was necessary to call the Appleton, Little Chute and Combined Locks departments.

Quarterly Inspections

A committee of two firemen makes quarterly inspections through the business districts in the village each year. Each man on the department gets his turn for inspection work to better acquaint him with the business districts. Once a year the department has its annual outing near a lake. Chief Malcolm has his men out twice a month for regular fire practices. There are 17 alarm stations throughout the village.

Holy Name Group To Stage Comedy

Cast of 10 Male Characters Will Present 'Breezy Money'

New London — An entire male cast of 10 characters will feature the presentation of a 3-act comedy, "Breezy Money," by members of the Holy Name society of the Most Precious Blood church on Tuesday, May 10, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Paul E. Herb, pastor, who is directing the play. The show will be a benefit performance.

Rehearsing regularly at the parish hall the last few weeks are Gregory Charlesworth, A. A. Vorba, Orr Glandt, A. J. Brisco, William Stern, Sr., J. J. Kircher, Donald Farrell, John Mulroy, George Ross and Charles Bresette.

Men will be faint-hearted women in a series of mad-cap situations at a small hotel in the country where business has dropped off to nothing. The manager decides to pep up business with publicity and frames a haunted suite. A reward of one thousand dollars to the couple who will stay in the suite and overwhelm the ghosts brings a horde of guests and plenty of excitement and ticklish situations.

The Senior sodality made plans yesterday afternoon to assist in the sale of tickets for the show.

11 Criminal Cases On Court Calendar

May Term of Circuit Court To Open Monday At Waupaca

Waupaca — Opening of the regular May 1938, session of circuit court in Waupaca county, with Paul E. Roman, Manawa, as district attorney, will take place at the courthouse in Waupaca next Monday with Judge Byron B. Park of Stevens Point presiding. Eleven criminal cases are included on the calendar.

The case of state versus Albert Wangeline of Readfield, charged with embezzlement, will be continued as the defendant is making restitution. A motion to dismiss will be made in the case of state versus Herbert Bock, charged with carrying concealed weapons. Another case on which a motion to dismiss will be made is that of state versus Walter Otto of Zittau, charged with larceny as bailor. A trial probably will be held in the case of state versus Cleon Brown of New London, charged with larceny.

Another motion to dismiss, according to District Attorney Roman, will be made in the case of state versus Albert Clauson, 16-year old Clintonville youth, charged with violation of the trapping laws. Clauson was fined $50 and costs in justice court at Clintonville some time ago when he was found guilty of setting muskrat traps in the Embarras river without having procured tags.

An appeal was then filed in circuit court. Upon investigation it has been learned that Clauson had purchased 75 tags from the county clerk and that he owned only 60 traps. Clauson claimed the tags had been removed from his traps by some other party and, as the tags are not numbered.

A motion for dismissal will be made in the case of state versus George Henschel, Symco, charged with libel, while that of state versus Violet Huycke, town of Helvetia, charged with perjury, will be continued as the defendant underwent an emergency operation. Tuesday of this week, Henry Huycke, Helvetia, charged with a statutory offense, will not be tried at this time of court, as the complainant is confined to a hospital.

Cases that will probably come to trial include those of state versus George Cheblowski, Embarras, on a charge of selling liquor to minors; state versus Roy Nero, Shawano county, charged with illegitimacy; state versus Norman Stub, Iola, charged with assault. The latter is an appeal from justice court.

HAMLIN HURLS WIN FOR DODGERS

BROOKLYN. — The Dodgers mixed timely hitting with effective pitching today and whipped the Phillies, 6 to 3, yesterday.

Bucky Walters went the route for the Phils, but his wildness and the fact that he couldn't stop the Brooklyn hitting "in the clutches" lost the game for him. Luke Hamlin started for the Dodgers and was credited with the victory when the Dodgers put on a three run rally to put the game on ice in the fifth.

Max (Bad Boy) Butcher, reinstated from the suspended list just before the game, took over the mound assignment in the fifth. He pitched scoreless, two hit ball through the last four innings, and in the ninth hit a homer with a mate on base. The Dodgers collected only six hits in the Phils' nine.

GRAPHIC GOLF

BY BEST BALL

GAUGING IRON PLAY

The right iron club to choose for each shot is largely dependent upon the golfer's experience at the game and his application to it. Experienced golfers quickly size up the situation and then shoot, somewhat like a ball player hurling a ball in from center field. Synchronizing the power and direction, to the distance to be traversed, has become more or less second nature to them. The week-end player can hardly hope to duplicate this feat but he can gain a better perception of distance and the club to use by practice with each.

Often the shot will be between two club ranges, requiring either a spared shot with a heavy iron or a forced shot with a lighter one. Many golfers feel that danger lies in trying to spare a shot and, for that reason the lighter club should be selected and the powerful blow given the ball. Psychologically this process is sound for the golfer is apt to devote greater concentration to a shot requiring greater force.

Many strokes can be saved by a correct diagnosis of the putting surface and the surrounding terrain. Traps should be avoided, the roll of the ball adjusted to the slope of the green, etc. If a quick stopping shot is needed the club-head should hit the ball as it descends, and take turf. This gives the ball a counter clockwise spin that tends to bring the ball to a quick halt.

Other Appleton Keglers Fail to Dent the Pay-off Division

NEENAH-MENASHA. — Appleton bowlers rolling in singles and doubles in the thirty-sixth annual state bowling tournament here last night failed to show, but H. DuPont drilled into the money with a 606 total on lines of 199, 193 and 214.

Recording a 3-game series of 1,072, H. Rotter-M. Kanzenus took high in the 350 doubles, while G. Jansen spilled games of 224, 174 and 152 for a total of 550 in the 175 singles. Fighting Fox and Stagehand Receive Equal Votes in Poll

New York. — The Kentucky derby will be a two-horse race between Stagehand and Fighting Fox in the opinion of a jury of 12 prominent trainers who were asked today to forecast a verdict on the three-year-old classic at Churchill Downs May 7.

Stagehand and Fighting Fox, first and second choices, respectively, in the future books, received five votes each. The other two were cast for Bull Lea, hope of Warren Wright's Calumet farm.

Earl Sande, trainer of Stagehand, naturally supported his own horse and was joined by George Odom, Mose Goldblatt, J. P. (Doc) Jones and Roscoe Goose.

Goose, who rode Donerail to victory in 1914 at the longest odds ($184.90 for $2) in derby history, went even farther than Sande. He named the chief, also trained by the Earl, to run second.

Wegner-Currie Duo High in Tournament

E. Wegner and R. Currie collaborated on a 1,374 score and A. Gehring hung up a 635 mark to lead Whirligig tournament bowlers at Arcade alleys. Scratch is 190 and the tourney will run until May 1. Entry fee of $1 includes bowling.

B. Bodat and L. Currie are second in doubles with a 1,243 count and other doubles leaders are P. Horn-A. Lee, 1,221; R. Duester-R. Nehls, 1,215; M. Sakalaris-A. Gehring, 1,189.

R. Nehls is second in singles with a 1,189 count. F. Gehring is third with 598 and R. Currie fourth with 588.

Favor Fenske to Win Drake Event

Nearly 2,000 Will Compete in Twenty-Ninth Annual Relays

Des Moines, Iowa. — (P) — Sun-browned young men from the far west and southwest joined forces today with mid-western track and field contemporaries for their twenty-ninth annual relay on Drake relays records.

Nearly 2,000 ambitious performers, representing more than 5 institutions, gathered for the opening program which included nine final events in the university and college divisions.

The weather bureau forecast a warm sun and Drake university officials promised a fast track.

Highlight events today: Two mile run—Greg Rice of Notre Dame, national intercollegiate record-holder; Bill Feller, the little Drake fellow who has the national A. A. U. junior 10,000 meter crown; and Walter Mehl, Wisconsin's Big Ten champion.

University distance medley—Wisconsin, with Charles Fenske, the favorite; Notre Dame and Missouri rated most dangerous.

Preliminaries were set for several events, including the 120-yard high hurdles which have Fred Wolcott and Jack Patterson, Rice Institute's great duo; Harvey Woodstra of Michigan State and several others of the country's best timber skippers.

Blues Defend League Lead Against Toledo

St. Paul, Minn. — (P) — Indianapolis began its first western swing of the American association a half game out of first place today but pressed for the runner up spot by St. Paul.

The Indians have won eight of their 12 starts and hold a full game advantage over St. Paul, which has played 10 and won six.

Meanwhile, the league leading Blues open their home stand against Toledo, which has been demonstrating its comeback powers in the last two games by twice beating Minneapolis in the ninth.

Columbus opens its road trip and its hope of a climb from the cellar at Milwaukee. Louisville plays at Minneapolis.

Grand Rapids Scrapper Belts Texan About Ring

Dallas. — (P) — Wesley Ramey, 133, Grand Rapids, Mich., one of the ranking lightweights of the country, gave Lew Jenkins, 136½, Sweetwater, Texas, an artistic licking in ten action-cramped rounds last night.

Jenkins never had a chance with the veteran Ramey. The Texan, who won his last eight fights, including a decision over Lew Foldsman, showed plenty of courage in hanging on for the entire ten rounds.

Ramey opened a cut under Jenkins' eye in the second and one over the same eye in the third. In the seventh Ramey scored the first of 11 knock-downs.

New High Quality — First choice rubber and cotton selected that conforms to Firestone's high standards and rigid specifications.

Long Mileage — Safe, silent tread design made of tough, slow wearing rubber that assures long mileage. Sturdy bars and rugged notches give protection against skidding.

Blowout Protection — Nine extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone Patented Gum-Dipping process. Every cord in every ply is covered with liquid rubber which counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Puncture Protection — Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread protects against punctures.

NEW LOW PRICES — because Firestone saves money by controlling and securing rubber and cotton at the source and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution. These savings make possible the extra values at these new low prices.

Don't miss this opportunity to save money. Let us put a set of the new large size, rugged, long wearing Firestone Convoy Tires on your car today.

Defender Falls Down On Discard

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Of all the small slams bid and made, I venture to say that easily 40 per cent finds success through the kind assistance of the alleged defenders. Usually it is a question of discarding. The average defender is not only hard pressed by the need for making five or six discards but, what is worse, shows his embarrassment by hesitation, squirming, facial contortions, and even groans of anguish. Consider the position of the West player in the following hand:

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

 ♠ 10 7
 ♥ A K 5
 ♦ A K Q J 4 3
EAST
 ♥ 10 8 4 3 2
 ♦ 10 6 5
 ♣ J 10 8 2
SOUTH
 ♠ A 6
 ♥ Q J 7
 ♦ 9 8 6 2
 ♣ A Q 5 3

The bidding:
 North East South West
 1 diamond Pass 2 no trump Pass
 6 no trump Pass Pass

North, after hearing the two no trump bid from South, saw no sense in dilly-dallying, but jumped directly to a small slam. His four-plus honor tricks and eight sure winners made his course quite logical.

West opened the spade king and declarer won with the ace. (There was no point in a holdup play, and it might be highly advantageous at a later stage to throw West on lead with the spade ten and force a club return.) Six diamond tricks then were dashed off to West's acute discomfort. On the third and fourth rounds he let go two low spades; on the fifth, a low club, and on the sixth, reduced to the Q-J of spades. When three rounds of hearts followed, however, West started to squirm. On the third round he had to choose between blanking the club king and blanking the spade queen. With the deep sigh of self-pity, he threw the jack of spades. This, of course, was duck soup for declarer, who had been worrying about the club finesse from the very start. It now was the simplest thing in the world to throw West on lead, by leading the spade ten, and force a club return up to the major tenace.

Imaginative and sound defense on West's part almost certainly would have led to a far different result. West could see that he would be forced to make four discards on the diamond suit and, since it was highly probable that South held the heart queen, another discard on the third heart. Three of these discards could safely be spades and one a club; the fifth, and crucial one, would have to be deceptive. If declarer did not have the A-Q of clubs it would do no harm to blank the king of clubs. If he did hold the A-Q it was just as vital to blank the club king, without guessing or squirming, in order to avoid a throw-in play that was easily predictable. Thus, had West quietly discarded two clubs leaving his king unprotected, my bet is that the declarer would have gone wrong. He could not possibly know what West was doing and, therefore, would take the club finesse as the natural play for the fulfilling trick.

Old Gardener Says:

Just at this season many garden makers are buying and planting gladiolus corms, or as they usually say, gladioli bulbs. Amateurs sometimes hesitate to ask for the bulbs by name in the stores because they have heard the word pronounced with the accent on the second syllable and the "i" pronounced as in eye and the "o" of the third syllable as in obey. Well, as a matter of fact, that is the pronunciation the dictionary gives, and must be correct. Nevertheless, most persons are more familiar with the pronunciation that puts the accent on the third syllable, the "o" pronounced as in obey and the "i" of the second syllable as in the first syllable of divide. Therefore, when you use the second pronunciation, you need not fear that you are making a mistake. You may be bothered with the plural form. Many growers say gladioli and some use gladiolus for both singular and plural forms. As a matter of fact, gladioli is the most scientific form and is perfectly easy to say.

Shouldn't Expect Little Child to Act Like Adult

BY ANGELO PATRI

Sara is five, bright and aggressive. She dresses herself and refuses help even with the knots. When she fails with them she is likely to get into a temper and stamp and roar. Her sorely-trying mother turned her over her knee and gave her a few smart slaps. Sara stamped and roared the harder and hit her mother. Mother gave her a smarter spank and set her on a chair to howl it out. Spanking does Sara no good. Might as well set her on the chair in the first place and save the wasted energy.

Spending money in the store delights Sara. Her mother gave her a weekly allowance of ten cents, cautioning her that she could have no more until next Monday. Sara bought a toy balloon for five cents and went and the doll didn't matter. She wanted ten cents more. Mother said No. Sara fought hard for her rights. She wanted a dime. She did not get it, but mother got a headache.

Sara doesn't see happenings exactly as other people see them. She sees them with a bit of color all her own; she tells things to make herself important. In a tight place she tries to make the story serve her needs. Her mother begs her to tell the truth, but Sara looks at her with steady, vacant eyes and tells her steady, another, and better story. She doesn't deceive anyone, but mother is greatly troubled. Is Sara going to grow up untruthfully? In her play, Sara is no gentle opponent. Getting the worst of things she strikes out left and right, and in extremity, bites. This is dreadful. The bitten one's mother is so shocked, and Sara's mother is so humiliated by her daughter's behavior and her neighbor's condemnation, that she feels ready to murder all concerned. She keeps Sara by herself for a jail term and hopes for the best. What is to be done with Sara? Just let her grow up. Keep teaching her. She is new to this world; she is eager to learn its ways, and she is close to the primitive, as she ought to be. Teach her that some things are not done. Remember that each experience teaches her something. She discovered that striking her mother did not pay. That biting got her into trouble. That spending all her money at once left her dissatisfied. She finds that twisting her story doesn't exactly serve. Her ideas on these matters are not

Cream Rouge Beneficial To Dry Skin

BY ELSIE PIERCE
 How To Use Cream Rouge

Jane D. writes: My skin is dry and I wonder whether I should use cream rouge. It is this type is good for my skin, please tell me just how to use it as I do not seem to have much success with it. It always seems too high in color too much and not very smooth. Also should it be used in spring and summer or only in winter. The reason I am interested is because I work and would like very much to have a make-up that would last for a few hours without needing constant fixing.

By all means cream rouge for the dry skin. It is actually beneficial to this type of skin at all seasons. The secret of using cream rouge correctly is to use very little. It is much easier to add than to subtract cream rouge. If you take a tiny bit at the end of a toothpick this will be enough. Apply from toothpick with forefinger dotting the cheek in three or four spots. Then use one of the other fingers to blend (otherwise, by using the forefinger you may get too much color on the cheeks). If you need more rouge, then dot again with forefinger and repeat the blending. In the spring and summer when the skin is more moist you may find it easier to blend the rouge than in winter when it is very dry and perhaps chapped. At all times I suggest the application of a make-up base (a cream protective base if possible) and then the rouge. Follow by dusting with powder and if more color is needed use just a touch of dry rouge. Such a make-up should look fresh and lovely for several hours.

Close Set Eyes
 M. M. Writes: I have heard that the eyes give us 90 per cent of the expression of the entire face. Mine are small and close set, but clear and bright and I wish there was something I could do to make them more noticeable.

You can make your eyes more attractive. Keep them clear and bright by all means. These are important assets without which even large eyes lose their interest. Apply a little shadow on the lids from about the center toward either corner, keeping the shadow near the lash line. Use mascara for the lashes, and again concentrate the color near the outer corners. Ditto on brows. This will bring the eye outward and make the eyes seem larger and wider apart. My bulletin "Eyes Beautiful" will cheerfully be sent to you on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Write me care of this paper.

clear. It is going to take many experiences to clarify them and set the acceptable standards in her behavior. But there is the duration of her childhood for this learning. Teach! let experience help, and in time she will arrive. Mothers should not feel humiliated by the behavior of little children. It is natural for them to be children, not little ladies and gentlemen. It is silly to try to make believe that children are polite, well-bred, thoughtful, patterned of conduct. They cannot be. If they are being trained to approach that standard it is enough. Give five-year-old children a few pennies a few days apart, instead of a weekly allowance. Their time is always the present minute. Be patient with their fabrications. Their ideas are hazy at best. Deal with their mistakes understandingly, firmly, but never despair. They are going to live a long time, and learn on the way.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and teachers concerning the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

My Neighbor Says—

Pancakes baked on a large frying pan over the campfire are a rather hearty food when served with fruit sauce or maple syrup. Very good with plenty of hot coffee. Ingredients can be carried and quickly combined at the picnic.

When putting plants in the ground spread out the roots as much as possible and keep as much soil on them as possible.

Big Electric Signs

During my first visit to New York city, when I was 16 years of age, I looked with great interest at Broadway, at night. Lining the streets on both sides were electric signs, the largest and brightest I ever had seen.

Some signs had motion in them, or at least seemed to have it. I remember a sign which advertised a certain kind of silk thread. It displayed a sewing machine at work, and showed a cat which jumped on the machine, tried to get hold of the thread, then jumped down again.

Large electric sign in London.

Of course the lights stay in the same place. The seeming motion comes from the fact they are switched on and off in different parts of the sign.

Another Broadway sign showed an ancient Roman chariot race. Six galloping steeds were pulling three chariots. The garments of the drivers seemed to be fluttering in the breeze, and all in all it was a pretty good race—except that one chariot always stayed in the lead.

Although that sign has not been shown for many years, I have the figures for it. It was 90 feet wide and 72 feet high, and there were 20,000 electric bulbs in it! Many of the bulbs were made of colored glass. To show the motion, 2,500 bulbs were flashed on and off each minute.

Above the sign was a line reading "Leaders of the World," and below this flashed the names of various firms in letters four feet high. The leading chariot had a wheel eight feet in diameter—the other wheel wasn't in view.

After the chariot race sign was taken down, an even larger electric sign appeared on Broadway. It was 250 feet wide and 50 feet high. There were fountains 40 feet high, peacocks with tails 60 feet long, and figures throwing lances. The monthly cost of this sign was given as $9,000. The figure includes money spent keeping the sign in repair as well as the cost of the electric current.

Nowadays most large cities have electric signs of one kind or another. Some streets in London are quite bright with them, the brightest place of all being Piccadilly Circus. The electric signs of Piccadilly Circus give such a good (and free) show that some persons in London have called it "the Scotsman's Cinema."

That nickname, by the way, is just an old joke, like many of the old "Scotch jokes." Scotsmen may be more careful about spending money than people of some other lands, but ever so many of them are kind-hearted and willing to give money where they think it will do good.

Many Qualities Needed To Make Good Housewife

BY DOROTHY DIX

A girl who is going to be married asks me to tell her what she will need to know in order to be an ideal wife. Well, daughter, wifehood isn't a standardized profession like law, medicine or mechanical engineering where you can devote all your energies and intelligence to specializing in one line of endeavor. It is a sort of jack-of-all-trades job where you have to make good in pretty nearly every human activity and then throw in all the charms and graces for good measure.

DOROTHY DIX stood him.

You will need to be a financial wizard and to make one dollar do the work of five. It is always a shock and a surprise to a man to find out how much it costs to support a family, that a wife doesn't grow her own fine feathers and can't wear her hands over a pot and turn corned beef and cabbage into filet mignon and champagne. Balancing the family budget is just as hard a chore as balancing the national budget, but you will have to do it. Or else—

You need to be a good cook. When a man marries he puts his stomach as well as his heart in his wife's hands and her success in marriage depends just as much upon the way she cherishes one as the other. Feed the brute and he will eat out of your hand. Starve him and he will seek greener pastures. Set him down to ill-cooked, measly served meals and he will growl and grouse. Place before him a dinner that is a feast of the things he likes best and he will be so sweet and amiable a babe could handle him. Romance may fade, but a man's appetite holds. And that is God's mercy to wives.

Or else—

And that is God's mercy to wives.

You will need to be a diplomat. Husbands and wives are bound to differ on a thousand things because of their difference of sex and point of view. Accept that as one of the facts of life that cannot be changed. Don't waste your time and energy and provoke strife by arguing with your husband over his beliefs and prejudices. Learn how to gumshoe around them instead of butting in to them. Leave strangers to tell him of his faults and correct his grammar and pronunciation. Handle him with gloves. There is nothing that pays such dividends in marriage as tact.

You will need to know how to be a working partner if you want your husband to succeed. You must make him a comfortable, peaceful home to which he returns with joy each night and from which he goes forth refreshed to his battle with the world. You must be a thrifty manager. You must take an interest in everything he is doing. You must keep his faith alive in himself. You must make him happy.

You must make him feel that you are his working force, for very few men ever get anywhere who have extravagant, nagging wives who belittle them.

You must be your husband's press agent. To a large extent the world takes a man at his wife's valuation. If she looks up to him and admires him and respects him and is always singing his praises, the other people begin to think that he must be a pretty fine sort of a chap. But if a wife is always criticizing her husband and broadcasting his faults and weaknesses; if she complains that he isn't a money-maker or is a bad manager or that he drinks too much at parties or loses too much in card games, she soon gets him the reputation of being a weakling and a drunkard and a gambler. Many a wife ruins her husband's chances in life by her indiscreet talking.

These are only a few of the things you will need to know to be a good wife, daughter. There are a million other sidelines. For being a wife is the most complicated job on earth.

hand, to take it seriously and then perhaps seem unnecessarily "impressed and glib." Answer: Perhaps the most useful advice possible to give on this subject is to take all personal remarks briefly and to echo the apparent mood of the person who speaks to you. In any case, keep your own point of view an appreciative but a light one. It is very stupid as well as conceited to imagine remarks made in ordinary politeness to have a meaning far beyond that which could possibly be intended. On the other hand, to carry a chip on your shoulder and imagine that everything nice said to you is said in mockery is evidence of a self-consciousness just as great as that of the person who imagines that every polite phrase means a declaration of adoration.

Lawrence Claims Networks are Lax About Air Freedom

Says Radio, Like Press, Should be Free of Government Censorship

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—One of the most important problems of keeping the radio free from governmental intimidation, interference or censorship has just been delivered by David Lawrence, president of the RCA, which owns the National Broadcasting company.

Mr. Lawrence's viewpoint differs materially from that recently expressed by William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting system. Mr. Paley is willing to have certain standards for broadcasting set up by congress. Mr. Sarnoff wants radio broadcasting programs to be free from any governmental interference.

"The broadcasting controls established by law," says Mr. Sarnoff, "are intended primarily to regulate physical facilities, not programs."

Mr. Paley's intent, of course, was not to approve any system of governmental regulation of programs, but to attempt to establish certain standards and see that government enforced their application. The objection to this is that government, being politically controlled, is itself a factor in public discussion, and hence the radio, like the press, must set up its own standards, leaving abuses to be taken care of, as they are in other mediums, through laws governing obscenity, fraudulent advertisement or libelous statement.

Radio, in fact, is a medium not unlike the press, and no special laws regulating its programs could be enacted without at the same time opening the door to government regulation of the contents of other mediums, such as the newspapers, the magazines, the movies or the theatre.

Indirect Censorship

"While direct government censorship over radio programs," declares Mr. Sarnoff, "is forbidden by law, the terms of the government licenses leave the door open for an indirect—and more insidious—censorship. Any attempt to impose the ordinary 'blue-pencil' censorship is little to be feared, because, being a conspicuous violation of the right of free speech, it would arouse a storm of public protest. But what is not conspicuous—and is, therefore, dangerous—is the effect on the mind of the broadcaster resulting from attitudes that may be taken by the government toward stations on matters outside the regulation of facilities.

"Fear of a disapproval can blue-pencil a dozen programs for every one that an official censor might object to. While practically nobody advocates a pre-program blue pencil in the hands of government, few realize that post-program discipline by the government can be a form of censorship that is all the more severe because it is undefined.

"If government regulation of the economics of broadcasting results in a no-profit industry, investors may prefer to exchange their broadcasting equities for government securities. Then we shall have government ownership and 100 per cent control of broadcasting. Any further discussion of censorship would then be purely academic. We would have broadcasting of the government by the government, and for the government. We have but to look at the autocracies of Europe to see what such governmental control of broadcasting may mean.

Attempts A 'Huey Long'

Mr. Sarnoff's speech relates to the attempts to levy heavy taxes on broadcasting, which this correspondent pointed out recently was not unlike Huey Long's attempt to put taxes on the circulation structures of newspapers, something which the supreme court of the United States declared unconstitutional. It is interesting that the head of the National Broadcasting system should be sounding a warning about governmental regulation of broadcasting for it has long been contended by critics of the administration that the party in power has means of controlling the radio facilities for its propaganda.

There seems little question but that broadcasting stations and systems have leaned over backwards to give governmental officials time on the air. Even to this day, the minority party spokesmen do not have simultaneous hook-ups of all systems immediately after a presidential address, no matter how political or partisan its nature. Rules such as these tend to give an advantage to the party in power, but public opinion is slowly learning more about the important part being played in radio broadcasting by the existence of licenses which can be revoked by governmental agencies.

Blames Networks

Once these grounds for revocation of licenses are clearly established as related only to questions of equitable distribution of wave lengths from a mechanical standpoint and wholly unrelated to propaganda content, there will be no suspicion attaching to the acts of a federal communications commission whose chairman is in frequent conference with the president of the United States.

Time was when it was considered just as unethical and improper for a member of a quasi-judicial or independent commission to be discussing anything with the chief executive as it would be for some federal judge to discuss his cases with the attorney general or the president himself. Radio is a new agency and much of the blame for the lack of definition of responsibility and authority rests on the owners of broadcasting stations and networks who until recently have been lax about standing up for their constitutional rights of freedom of the air.

YARDS' DIFFERENT

Boise, Idaho—(P)—Guy B. Mains, supervisor of the 1,615,000-acre Boise National forest, has no trouble issuing grazing permits. But when Roscoe Beise of Caldwell asked for permission to stake out three 'yards' of bees in the forest, he was stumped.

When he found out that a 'yard' is a colony of bees, he issued the permits.

RETURNED AND PAID

West Point, Neb.—(P)—A ragged, unkempt man talked William Green, barber, into giving him a free shave a year and a half ago. He said he would return some day and pay the debt. Green merely smiled and nodded. The man borrowed 50 cents from another West Point man and disappeared. He came back the other day, well dressed, clean-shaven and prosperous looking. He paid Green for the shave and returned the 50 cents.

Hollywood Happenings

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—You can see Freddie Bartholomew working on the Metro lot again, but you ask about Ronald Sinclair and find out there look a little vague.

"He isn't with us any more," they say.

Ronald's the lad who was supposed to take Freddie's place in pictures when Freddie was in the picture "The Little Rascals." Ronald took him out on strike.

Freddie Bartholomew, singularly like Fred, made one picture called "Tough-breds Don't Cry." And then Freddie came back.

It's that same old movie game they've been playing since the days when producers woke up to find that their anonymous screen players had been made into "stars" by nickelodeon fans. And they're still playing it no less craftily, no more subtly.

When Gladys Smith became Mary Pickford and started mooning in her practical way about the huge fortune she should take from pictures, somebody discovered Mary Miles Minter, whose curls were just as nice as Gladys Smith's. Gladys went on and got her millions, and in this case Mary Miles Minter fought on with the public too. But it doesn't always work that way.

Every studio likes to have under contract at the proper time, a personality it can promote as an ace in the hole or a bluffing threat in the movie poker game. It's supposed to help keep stars in line.

Garbo Returned

When Metro wasn't sure of Garbo's return, its sheltered ace was Tala Birell, blonde Viennese whose resemblance to the Swede is marked even now when she's trying to alter it for her independent career. Garbo came back.

When Valentino quarreled with Paramount, the bosses there recruited a young fellow named Jacob Krantz, rechristened him Ricardo Cortez, and started a "great love" build-up. Valentino didn't come back, but Cortez was launched on a long and profitable career.

Over George Raft's rebellious head hung the threat of Jack LaRue, but not very effectively from the studio point of view. LaRue played an occasional Raft role, but Raft—when he came back—always got what he wanted.

Beery Threat Used

Julie Hayden is having success on Broadway now, after Hollywood used her badly. Julie was elated one day when RKO signed her—but next day she knew the reason. Her resemblance to Ann Harding was being capitalized. Ann then being in one of her several studio battles. Julie caused dismay by refusing to play ace in the hole—and bobbing her hair.

One of the most amusing stories of the sort centered around George Bancroft's refusal to play in "The Wolf of Wall Street" several years ago. Then a big star, Bancroft retired to his Santa Monica home while Paramount fussed, fumed and subsequently schemed.

Result of the scheming was that Bancroft one afternoon, reading his paper, saw that Wallace Beery, then under Paramount contract, would play the Bancroft role. Next morning George was at the studio—and "The Wolf of Wall Street" was one of his most successful films. But what he didn't know was that Paramount made the Beery announcement for his benefit—and never intended to put anybody but Bancroft in the picture!

War dampens the ego of the star species. It does terrible things to fan mail.

Manawa Cemetery Group Organized

Over 60 Years Ago

Manawa—Recognition of the need for a cemetery association and for the purchase of land for the exclusive purpose of burying the dead was recognized here more than 60 years ago, according to A. C. Lindsay, present secretary of the Little Wolf Cemetery association. On Feb. 15, 1878, a number of men met to organize such a group.

These men were Stephen Dox, W. D. Guerin, August Lindow, Herman Lindow, Arthur Lindsay, Richard Wilcox, Henry Hanna, Robert Hessey, John L. Dox, Isaac Stevens, and George Lindsay. They organized and incorporated under the laws of the state of Wisconsin the Little Wolf Cemetery association.

They chose the present site about two miles south of the village and bought land. Lots sold at that time for $3. Later the price was raised to $5, then to $10, and now sell for $15.

During the early days nothing was done to keep down the brush and weeds except that a fire would occasionally run over the ground, burning the log fences erected to keep out wandering cattle. Log fences finally gave way to a new rail fence, but this, too, was burned down and in 1921 a steel fence was built to enclose the cemetery.

In 1927 the entire grounds were cleaned up and graded, stumps grubbed out, holes filled, brush cut and burned. All curbs erected around the lots were removed when permission was received from the lot owners, thus giving caretakers a better chance to keep clear the lawns close to the markers and monuments.

A small toll house was erected in 1914. Additional land was purchased from William Brownlee in 1919, and three acres were also purchased from Max Jende in 1937, which has since been fenced, and lots surveyed and platted, and markers erected.

Today the association is solvent and has a balance in the treasury. It owns a fine piece of property in the best of condition, the most recent addition being the planting of 1,000 trees to be used as a wind break and to beautify the grounds.

Association officers are John Lindow, president; E. H. Yohr, treasurer; A. C. Lindsay, secretary. Working with these men in the interests of the organization are E. G. Zantow for the town of Little Wolf and J. C. Kinsman for the village of Manawa.

Report in Goebbels Paper Adds to Tension Between Reich and Czechoslovakia

Berlin—(AP)—Tension in German-Czechoslovakian relations was increased today by publication in Der Angriff, organ of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, of a charge that Czechoslovak army officers had plotted a "monstrous attempt" on the peace of Europe.

Over a dispatch from Liberec, Czechoslovakia, Der Angriff printed these headlines: "Frisch! Frisch! Plan for Prague; German Putsch Attempt on European Peace."

The newspaper asserted that a group of officers of the Czechoslovakian army belonging to the so-called "black legion" had been preparing a plot which failed to materialize at the last minute only because of the watchfulness of a member of Konrad Henlein's sudeten German party.

Meanwhile Berlin awaited with keen interest an expected radio address by Czechoslovakia's Premier Milan Hodza upon which might depend whether Germany would revise completely her relations with her neighbors.

It was expected to be an announcement of the government's decision concerning the eight demands made by Henlein, the Nazi leader in Czechoslovakia, in a speech last Sunday.

Der Angriff's account of the alleged plot was:

On the initiative of the officers' group a German subject named Glaser, disfranchised and with a warrant out against him, succeeded in forming among the sudeten (nazified) Germans in Czechoslovakia a so-called "terror organization" against the Czechoslovakian state.

Informed Authorities

He also succeeded in forming "groups of three" supplying them with arms and orders to start a putsch against Czechoslovakia during the night of April 30.

Glaser then informed authorities of all towns and villages where he had succeeded in forming these groups. The police then received orders to suppress any attempt with the most brutal force.

Only through the watchfulness of one sudeten German, said Der Angriff, was prevented a catastrophe whose extent hardly could be imagined.

Score 'Lawless' Actions of Board

Publishers Criticize Labor Relations Body, Senate Lobby Group

New York—(AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers association stood in firm opposition today to what it regarded as unconstitutional actions of the national labor relations board and the senate lobby committee.

Resolutions adopted at the annual convention yesterday set forth the association's views and commended resistance to "lawless" actions.

The resolution on the labor relations board spoke particularly against "calling upon publishers to account for material they have printed and circulated," cited two instances in which they said this had been attempted, and urged each editor and publisher "so menaced... to resist with all legal means at his command and, if necessary, to turn to his fellow publishers for aid."

Concerning the lobby committee, the association said it had "sought to intimidate citizens in the exercise of their constitutionally guaranteed right to petition congress, by attempting to compel them to turn over to the committee by the command of a dragnet subpoena, their records, papers and accounts."

The publishers were told last night by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York to go after local political machines if they wanted to improve the administration of national affairs.

Group Crops in Soil Depleting Building Classes

Place Emphasis on Ability of Those Able to Protect and Conserve

Soil-depleting and non-soil-depleting crops are being classified by the Wisconsin agricultural conservation committee according to their use and emphasis is being placed on the ability of such crops to protect and conserve the soil according to word received by R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

The officials list corn, sweet corn and popcorn as soil-depleting when used for any purpose except as sown corn for a cover crop or green manure.

Grain sorghums, tobacco, sugar beets, mangels and cow beans, cultivated sunflowers, truck and vegetable crops, potatoes, bulbs and flowers, field beans and canning peas are also classified as soil-depleting.

Winter wheat, spring wheat and fall-seeded rye are soil-depleting if they are left standing to form grain, if they are used for grain or hay, or if they are not continuously pastured before and after May 1, 1938, and then pastured sufficiently to prevent grain formation, they are grouped as non-soil-depleting crops. These acreages might be tilled before May 1, 1938, in preparation for some other crop, which crop or use would determine the final classification of the acreage. Wheat could be used as a green manure crop in orchards or on commercial vegetable or potato land without bringing the acreage into the soil-depleting group. Similarly, fall rye used as a green manure crop would not change the acreage classification.

Soil-depleting
Oats, barley, spring-seeded rye, flax mixtures of these and summer and speltz count as soil depleting if they are left standing to mature grain or are used for grain or hay. They may be used for pasture, as a green manure crop to turn under, or as a cover crop or as a green manure crop that does not mature and is not used for grain or hay and therefore is grouped as non-soil-depleting.

Sweet sorghum (cane), buckwheat, sudan grass and millet are soil-depleting if used for seed or grain or for sorghum silage or syrup. Otherwise, they are non-soil-depleting—specifically, when used as a green manure crop, a cover crop, as pasture or for hay. Field peas or soybeans are soil-depleting for seed or grain or if left standing to mature grain. They are non-soil-depleting when used for only hay or pasture.

Summer-fallowed acreages are soil-depleting if unprotected. When

FARM SPEAKER

Glen Householder, above, director of the extension service for the National Holstein association will meet with Holstein breeders of Outagamie county at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the courthouse. It will be his first appearance in Outagamie county. The meeting is being sponsored by the Holstein Breeders association.

protected against wind and water erosion, according to state committee recommendations, they are grouped with the non-soil-depleting acreages.

Idle land is non-soil-depleting. The state committee stresses the importance of advance knowledge of which crops and uses are soil-depleting and which are not because such knowledge permits a farmer to plant and use his crops in a manner that will aid him to keep his soil-depleting acreages within his soil-depleting acreage allotment assure him of maximum benefit payment opportunities at the same time that he protects his farm.

Brown Swiss Breeders Will Meet at Chilton

Chilton — Brown Swiss breeders from six counties will meet at the city hall here Thursday evening, May 5, to devise ways and means of promoting the interests of Brown Swiss cattle. Breeders will be present from Door, Kewaunee, Brown, Manitowish, Sheboygan and Calumet counties. Fred S. Idise, recently appointed fieldman to represent the Brown Swiss breeders in Wisconsin, will attend and will outline plans and programs which have been developed by the National Brown Swiss associations for the promotion of breed activities. Brown Swiss breeders have always been enthusiastic about the qualities of this breed of cattle but they have always lacked organizing activities for promoting this breed.

Predict Increase in Production of Milk During 1938

Early Pastures Expected Because of Good Spring Moisture Conditions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—After a record year in 1936 and a steep decline in 1937, Wisconsin dairymen this year again will raise their total milk production above the long time average, the Wisconsin crop estimates service predicted today in a bulletin.

The service noted that in spite of lower milk prices, milk production on Wisconsin farms during the present month continues to increase more than the usual seasonal amount, while "prospects for continuing high production in the first few months of the pasture season look promising at the present time."

Feeding of grains and concentrates on dairy farms of Wisconsin is currently the highest on record, early pastures can be expected as a result of good soil moisture conditions and an early spring, so that high production levels are guaranteed for at least a few months of the spring and summer season.

Report Increase

The state crop reporting service pointed out today that milk production per Wisconsin farm at the beginning of April was 249.4 pounds, a 3 per cent increase from a corresponding period in 1937, although it remains one per cent below the 10-year average for April 1.

The number of milk cows on Wisconsin farms this month is about 2 per cent higher than a year ago and milk production was also higher by 2 per cent over last year. Grain and concentrates being fed, at 5.32 pounds per cow, was the highest on record for April 1.

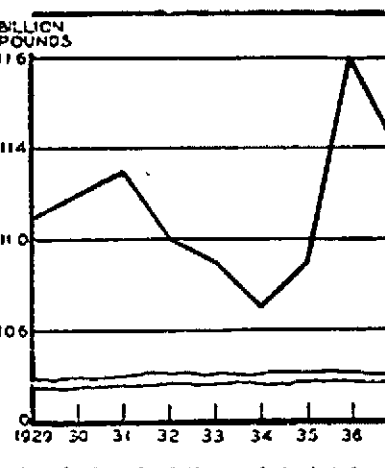

However, because milk prices have declined more rapidly than feed prices, the cost of the feed was relatively higher than a year ago.

Farmers on farms surveyed, it was said, intend to increase the size of their herds during the coming year.

The crop reporting service also said today that egg production in the state continues high, while Wisconsin farm employment and wages continue to decline.

Now, under the emphasis of a national program they are planning to unite their efforts to convince more farmers that bigger and better profits are in store for them just as soon as they switch to Brown Swiss. They claim that the Brown Swiss is the biggest breeder in the world, as well as the best.

PRODUCTION CLIMBS WISCONSIN ANNUAL MILK PRODUCTION ESTIMATES 1929-1937

Variation in Wisconsin's total annual milk production is shown in this chart, prepared by Walter Ebling, senior agricultural statistician for the state department of agriculture and markets. Total milk production in the state reached a high point in 1936, while a sharp decline took place in 1937. Early prospects for 1938 suggest another high production year.

Lists Best Vegetable Varieties for Garden

Climate, cultural conditions and purpose for which the vegetable is to be used all aid in selecting what is the best variety of a certain vegetable, according to James G. Moore of the college of agriculture in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agent.

Following is a list of varieties suggested by Moore for 1938 as likely to give satisfaction in a majority of cases: bountiful, stringless green pod and brittle wax beans (bush); early wonder and Detroit dark red beets; Italian green sprouting broccoli; resistant (mid-season) and Danish ballhead of Holland (late) cabbage; red cored Chantenay and Nantes or coreless carrots; early snowball cauliflower; golden plum celeriac; Lucullus chard; Davis perfect and Chicago pickling cucumbers; black beauty egg plant; Vienna kohlrabi; Grand Rapids leaf, May king, white Boston and New York 515 head lettuce; Southport yellow globe, transplant, semi-mild type, prize-taker and riverside sweet Spanish onions; Guernsey rhapsody, little marvel peas; Harris early giant and Windsor 4 pepper; small sugar pumpkin, early scarlet globe radish; American purple top rutabaga; straightneck summer, table queen winter and Hubbard large squash; golden early market, unshin and golden cross bantam sweet corn; John Baer, Pritchard tomatoes and purple top white globe turnips.
